LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Those Emigrants:
A Story Disbelieved

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Undue prominence was given during these two days by some news agencies to reported surrender to Japanese Army officers of Soviet General Lushkoff, high OGPU official, it appears. The latter's rank coupled with some other facts seems to discredit the naive belief that the Japanese Army officers would be able to get some useful information out of him. Rather they are themselves liable to be duped by this General.

Probably not all people are sufficiently aware of the fact that the GPU has a special school where agents are undergoing special training. After finishing their course these agents either "run away" from Russia to some foreign country and there assert themselves as emigrants, or are being sent abroad in some official capacity. In the latter case they receive, soon after, the order to return to Russia. They disobey it and automatically become emigrants too. Being admitted in emigrant society and living among simple-minded unsuspecting people, these Bolshevik agents are in a position to give invaluable information to their Government.

The latest of these so-called emigrants was Butenko, Soviet ex-Charge d'Affaires in Bucharest. Now it seems that the Soviet Government found it necessary to increase the number of these emigrants by two more—Lushkoff and Frantzevitch.

Of course they began their propaganda with the most modern topic—Soviet purges. The other example of nonsense is a narrative, concocted by Lushkoff, about how his wife fled away from Russia, which should have aroused suspicion even of most credulous people. It reads as follows:—

"Lukshkov sent his wife Ena to Moscow with a secret understanding that he would smuggle himself into Manchoukuo while she was to flee to Poland.

Lushkov then left Habarovsk on a trip to inspect the frontier. Moving southward along the border, Lushkov reached Changliangtze near Hunchun on June 12.

There he received a telegram from his wife reading "Herewith receive my kiss." This meant she had succeeded in fleeing out of Soviet territory."

So, you see, high official's wife flees from Russia and GPU with their frontier guards, police dogs, etc., etc do not suspect anything.

The runaway, after she had safely arrived in Poland, sends a telegram to her husband—something about kisses. Strangely enough GPU allows this cypher-looking telegram from a foreign country to be transmitted to her husband who is already "nearing the frontier of another country." Isn't that suspicious?

I am looking forward to some other revelations of the same kind.

OUTSIDER.

Shanghai, July 2.

Spanish Bombings:
Attempted Justification

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—May I be allowed to gloss on your Monday editorial about the "Republican Threat"?

It is a fact that everybody should know that from the earliest days of hostilities in Spain, Red raids have taken place regularly and systematically on Nationalist towns. Not only on these towns, which might legitimately be considered military objectives, but on those that were entirely without defence and devoid of military importance. The purpose of the latter attack was therefore the massacre and terrorization of the civilian population.

Yet when General Franco assumed superiority in the air (after a long interval) and now uses his planes for military purposes, the Reds raise a loud hypocritical outcry which is faithfully re-echoed in thoughtless newspapers. The present outcry is not a humanitarian one. It is a carefully calculated one to immobilize the Nationalists' airforce by pressure from outside, now that it can be used to deadly advantage.

It is evident that the Reds and their allies the Pinks are making the most of the bombs on Barcelona, Valencia and Alicante, and people whose hearts do them more credit than their heads are allowing themselves to be stampeded by this appeal to humanitarian instinct.

And considering that Barcelona, Valencia, Alicante have been the scenes of fiendish massacre of innocent men, women and children by the very people who now cry out against the bombing, it will be realized that their clamour is a sham, from the point of view of honest horror.

Moreover, who would try to uphold that these towns bombed by Franco's planes are open? Generally they are ports where arms-loaded ships, in spite of the Non-intervention agreements, bring war material for the Reds; these towns too contain munition works, arms factories and H.Q. of the Red Army; they are then the main cause of the prolongation of the war, and therefore of the prolongation of the slaughter. General Franco's object is to win the war and so stop all the killing as quickly as possible; to leave these towns unmolested is to assist the Reds.

The Reds have lost the war, why are they resisting then? A sad truth to say: "Since they cannot win, they try to leave Spain as wounded and destroyed as possible." If they had a hundredth of an inch of reasonable patriotism they would have given up—hatred blinds them. On Franco's side it is all the contrary. If now he seems cruel, "It is only to be kind." I cannot understand why this worthy gentleman should be abhorred by coming generations. He may be—as God Himself is—but it will be quite impossible to know of what he has done, of what he is doing and of what he will do, without a general feeling of admiration and gratitude.

EXCELSIOR.

Shanghai, July 3.

A New Idea:
The Intelligence Game

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—I think C. T. H.'s suggestion that more space should be reserved in the correspondence columns for questions and answers sounds very nice indeed—because it reminds me of a game I used to play in my childhood called the "Intelligence Game"—little bits of cardboard with questions and answers on them and if you could give the right answer you got a mark. Your correspondence columns do not show very much enthusiasm for this game at present—but I think it could be worked up. There was one question to which I never could remember the answer: "Who introduced side-saddles and in what year?" I think it had something to do with Catherine the Great—but I have no encyclopaedia by me. I therefore offer it to start the game.

And if C. T. H. could give us his authority for his lunar calendar reply it would be interesting.

EX CATHEDRA.

Shanghai, July 3.

Lesson Sermon
First Church of Christ Scientist

"God" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon read on July 3, in all Churches of Christ Scientist throughout the world. Golden Text: Psalms 20:50. We will rejoice in thy salvation, and in the name of our God we will set up our banners.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson Sermon are the following from the Bible. John 4.24. "God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.

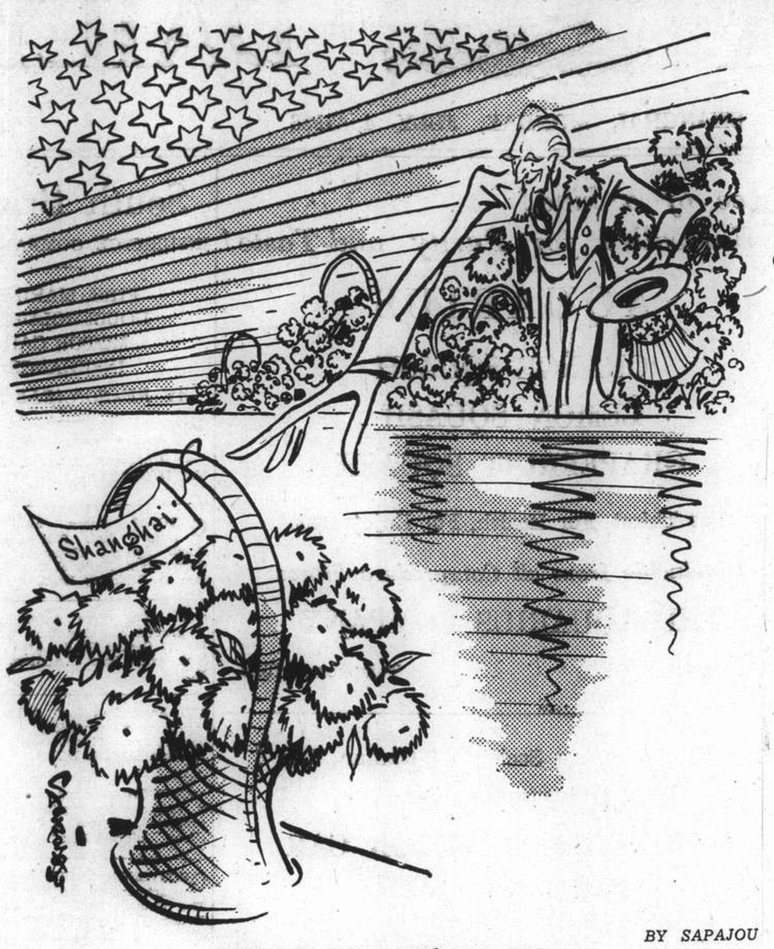
The Lesson Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science Text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "God is incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love. Are these terms synonymous? They are. They refer to one absolute God. They are also intended to express the nature, essence, and wholeness of Deity.

Not materially but spiritually we know Him as divine Mind, as Life Truth, and Love. We shall obey and adore in proportion as we apprehend the divine nature and love Him understandingly, warring no more over the corporeality, but rejoicing in the affluence of our God. Religion will then be of the heart and not of the head. We worship spiritually, only as we cease to worship materially.

Sixty Years Ago

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS," OF JULY 4, 1878

After several days of exceptional and unwholesome heat the depressing influence of which was greatly felt on Tuesday and yesterday, clouds began to roll up from the westward last evening about 5.30, and soon a stirring, but gentle and refreshing breeze was felt. This quickly, however, gave place to tokens of a coming storm, and in less than a quarter-of-an-hour rain began to fall heavily, accompanied by almost incessant thunder and lightning. The revivifying effects of the storm, which lasted about an hour, though gentle rain fell long afterwards, were very marked; the only drawback to the general feeling of relief being the postponement of the first concert of the season of the Wind Instrument Society, which was to have been given last night in the Public Gardens.



BY SAPAJOU

A Bouquet For The Fourth

In the Russian Colony

BY "STROY"

The Commercial School of the Orthodox Confraternity closed for the summer holidays with celebrations in the course of which graduates received their diplomas. On June 29 a dinner was held in the school's hall, attended by all graduates, teachers (headed by Prof. N. P. Pokrovsky, the Principal), and the directors of the Confraternity. Speeches were given by Dr. D. I. Kazakoff, Prof. N. P. Pokrovsky, Gen. A. I. Isakoff Mr. L. V. Arnoldov, and representatives of the student body. A total of 12 students graduated this term, with Miss Rogojina the only girl among them. At the end of the school term of the Ecole Remi, there was a very interesting exhibition of children's handiwork and drawing. Even the exponents of the kindergarten revealed an amity for neatness, while many drawings bore signs of a distinct artistical taste.

Archbishop Meleti, head of the Harbin diocese, has left for the All-European Bishops' Conclave in Belgrade after a short stay in Shanghai. On his arrival here from Dairen, the Bishop was met by many members of the clergy and the community, and an even greater number of persons was on hand to bid him farewell. During his stay in the city, receptions were given in his honour, and the Archbishop also received the heads of the colony. From Shanghai Archbishop Meleti is going to Naples, where he will visit Bari, venerated by Orthodox Christians and containing the remains of St. Nicolas. It is believed probable that from the Belgrade Conclave Archbishop Meleti will return a Metropolitan. After the death of Metropolitans Innokenti and Mophodi, there have been no Orthodox Metropolitans in the Far East.

Russian Industrialist Here

Mr. P. P. Batolin, whose fame as an industrialist and financier used to ring all over Russia and far over its borders, has arrived in Shanghai. After a short stay here he will proceed to Japan and from there to Germany. Before the revolution Batolin and his concerns owned most of the shares of the Russo-Asiatic Bank, this making him the owner of the Russian share of the Chinese Eastern Railway. He had coal mines, colossal cotton plantations in Middle Asia, fisheries in Kamchatka, etc. During his trip to the United States in 1918 he met Henry Ford, Rockfeller and Morgan; he was a friend of Marquis Okuma; and in 1922, in the time of the N.E.P. in Russia, it was planned to invite Mr. Batolin to become economical dictator in order to rehabilitate Russia's rural economy which was so grievously wrecked by the Revolution. The negotiations, were conducted in Berlin and were attended by Krasin, Rykov and Krestinsky, arrived there specially from Moscow. The parleys were directed by the—then German Chancellor Dr. Wirt, and the money for this colossal plan was to be supplied by the United States.

The Russian Women's Hostel has bid adieu to Mr. Denny, for many years its Hon. Treasurer, who has left Shanghai. Mr. Denny's sterling services to the Hostel were reviewed at a dinner given in his honour in the Cercle Sportif Francais. When the Hostel was first founded and had practically nothing but its premises, Mr. Denny sent along a great part of the furniture, and contributed financially. Later he started to take an active part in the work of this institution which gave refuge to many women and girls and often, with the help of Mr. Denny, found them positions. Among others, this dinner was attended by M. and Mme. André Jaspar, Mrs. Darré, Mrs. K. E. Tarassova, Mrs. M. G. Grudinina and Mrs. B. N. Ievleva. As a gift of thanks Mrs. Darré presented Mr. Denny with an artistic album with photographs of the Russian Women's Hostel.

A Union of workers employed in business concerns is being formed in the Russian colony. The aims of this Union are mutual assistance and the protection of professional interests. It is hoped that after the actual organization of the Union will be concluded, the latter may have its own premises where the cultural needs of members will also be catered to. Vast numbers are employed in firms and offices in Shanghai, and should this organization meet with a friendly response, it may easily become one of the largest—and therefore one of the most influential organizations—in the colony.

The New Knife Grinder

As already noted in these columns, among the various professions of the Russian colony is that of the knife-grinder. These men move from spot to spot, sharpening knives and invariably attracting the curiosity of the native population. Now, one of these knife-grinders has contrived to convert his machine into something akin to a rickshaw-carriage, with an extra wheel attached for strength. A leather curtain protects him from the sun and rain, so that whereas previously he had to carry all his paraphernalia on his shoulders, now he can propel himself along in any weather.

Prof. S.S. Aksakov, well-known in local musical circles, has just completed his new composition: a fortepiano concerto, opus 30, in "mi" minor, for a fortepiano with orchestra. The music has been sent by the composer to Paris, where it is expected to be included in the current musical season, while Shanghai music-lovers may hear the composition in the winter season. This is Prof. Aksakov's third composition. The first two—"Symphonic Ballad" and "7th Symphony"—were rendered by the Municipal Orchestra in 1934 and 1937 respectively, both with considerable success.

SOMETHING of a record in family connection with the House of Commons has been created by the election of Mr. Henry Hunloke for West Derbyshire. He is married to a sister of the Duke of Devonshire, who, as Marquis of Hartington, was the late member. But the duke has also two other sisters married to members of Parliament—Lady Dorothy, who is the wife of Mr. Harold Macmillan, M.P., and Lady Rachel, married to the Hon, James G. Stuart, M.P., a son of the Earl of Moray and Castlestewart, who is a Junior Whip. That is not all. Viscount Cranborne, M.P., who recently resigned from the Foreign Office along with Mr. Anthony Eden, is also a brother-in-law of the duke, who married Lady Mary Cecil, sister of Viscount Cranborne, and a daughter of the Marquis of Salisbury.

A Shanghai Letter

Social Life of 1776

Today being the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence of 1776, the thoughts of all good Americans will doubtless turn for a moment to glories of past history, and possibly for many moments towards happy celebrations in the modern way.

We are no longer perturbed over the rights and wrongs of political events of bygone times since during recent months we seem to have had national troubles in plenty concocted for us, and these will keep us occupied enough, but we might, if only to take our minds from present confusions, reflect for a space upon the social life of the common ancestors of Americans and British, and upon certain of the influences from which some of our forbears fled, and others stayed behind to suffer. One is forced to conclude, after reading accounts of the times, that it was no wonder thinking people—those who felt within themselves an urge for independence of thought and action—decided to found what they hoped would prove a social El Dorado on an alien shore.

George III's narrow-mindedness and the stupidity and arrogance of his Ministers matter not now—we appear to have a new brand of such qualities prevalent in certain quarters today, so let us regard the gentler influences, the trappings and the follies of the period of our forbears.

* * *

A Colourful Period

We must conclude that among the higher social orders the eighteenth century was an age of colour and pomp, but an age of splendour does not necessarily imply one of refinement, and we are told that grossness was as conspicuous as vice itself. From the princes of the blood downwards there was much profanity. A Billingsgate fish-wife of recent times could scarcely excel a lady of fashion of the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. G. W. E. Russell who gives us some colourful word pictures of these old times tells of a certain Whig duchess, a leader of fashion and high society, who one day at table when guests were present said loudly to her footman: "I wish to God that you would not keep rubbing your great fat greasy belly against the back of my chair." The Duke of Cumberland, we are told, was once detailed to interview the Archbishop of Canterbury to get the prelate's views on a reform of Church rates which the Government was considering. Returning in hot haste the Duke burst into the awaiting assembly and exclaimed: "It's all right, my lords; the Archbishop says he will be d—ed to hell if he does not throw the Bill out" One Prime Minister's d—s were so well known that a colleague, wishing to bring him to the point quickly said: "Let us presume everything and everybody to be d—d and come to the point."

* * *

Periwigs and Petticoats

In the social life of the times around 1776 there is little we would wish to emulate, from the periwigs and petticoats to the eats and drinks. The gentlemen and ladies had it all their own way. How fine were the ladies with their much curled wigs, their heavily raddled cheeks, their jewels and brocades! But their heavy wining and dining, their boisterous behaviour and some of their habits would be regarded today as having little connection with fineness of manners. And the fine gentlemen who, as Thackeray describes, "inherited their boroughs, took their cases in their patent places; who did us the honour to govern us and slipped Lord North's bribes so elegantly under their ruffles. We may make acquaintance with a hundred of these fine folk, hear their talk and laughter, read of their loves and quarrels, intrigues, debts, duels, divorces: we see Charles Fox cursing over the cards or March (afterwards Marquis of Queensbury, 'Old Q.') bawling out the odds at Newmarket. We can imagine Burgoyne tripping off from St. James' Street to conquer the Americans, and slinking back into the club somewhat crestfallen after his beating." Then, another side of the social picture: "We peep into Newgate where poor Mr. Rice the forger is waiting his fate and his supper. 'You need not be particular about the sauce for his fowl' says one turnkey to another, 'for you know he is to be hanged in the morning.' 'Yes,' replies the second janitor, 'but the chaplain sups with him, and he is a terrible fellow for melted butter.'"

Further lights upon the life of fine gentlemen are revealed in a letter from Lord Carlisle who, writing to a friend says of his day: "You get up at nine; play with Raton your dog till 12 in your dressing gown; then creep down to White's; are five hours at table; sleep till supper time and then make two wretches carry you in a sedan-chair with three pints of good claret in you, three miles for a shilling."

* * *

The Drab Picture

Those were the days in England when parishioners bowed the knee as well as the head before the parson, and fattened their poultry to present to his reverence, themselves going hungry. The chaplain in turn when he came to dine with the gentry, said grace, and left the table before the pudding was served, thus abstaining from the dessert and after-dinner wine-drinking of his "betters." Tradesmen of all degrees stood hat in hand when a gentleman passed, and children went down on their knees to get their parents' blessing. Authors waited for hours in gentlemen's ante-rooms with fulsome dedications for which they hoped to get a few guineas, and Mr. Pitt's under-secretaries did not dare to sit down before him. Mr. Pitt in turn always bowed the knee before George III (nowadays, quite rightly many of us think, commoners bow the knee to Royalty), but we are told that Lord Chatham once burst into tears when the King addressed a few kind words to him!

In working class circles the poor apprentices slept under the counter and the maid-of-all-work in the vicinity of the kitchen sink among the black-beetles.

It is curious to us to-day to read that there was a journal published in America known as the "Royal New York Gazette" for the word "Royal" has not an attractive sound now in the ears of a good republican when applied to anything concerning himself and his doings.

* * *

Present Graces

We women need to be thankful that we live today instead of in 1776. True we have our troubles now but the small things in life hold little danger for us. Our cosmetics are compounded healthfully and we have no fear of dying of lead poisoning as was common in the eighteenth century. If we wear stays at all they are not laced tightly—there is no hanging on to bed-posts while some Abigail pulls our poor ribs in; we are unhampered by petticoats and our lords and masters are less prone to excesses in eating and drinking than were their forbears. During celebrations such as those of today's nature, a little extra indulgence may be observed, but it is doubtful if any good American tonight will be carried home "with three pints of good claret" in him.

America's First Lady

The wife of President Franklin D. Roosevelt has, in addition to her public and family duties, found time to achieve fame in the literary world and her autobiography has been widely read. For three years, from 1899-1901, she was a pupil at Allenswood, a well-known and much famed school for girls at Wimbledon, near London, and her contemporaries remember her as a girl with much force of character. At school she was greatly interested in literature and history.

First Lady's School Days

The present chatelaine of the White House was for three years a pupil at a school in London much favoured by those sometimes termed "the nobility and gentry." This was "Allenswood," in Wimbledon and the founder was a Mlle. Marie Souvestre, a most remarkable woman who has left a fine impression upon English education. She was the daughter of Emile Souvestre, the well-known writer, and in the 'sixties established a school at Fontainebleau which was attended by daughters of many well-known American and English families.

It is said that she was a born teacher, and it was at the suggestion of Lord Morley of Blackburn, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain and Lady Strachey, whose daughters she educated, that she came to England and founded a school at Wimbledon. This is still in existence and carrying on the traditions of its famous foundress.

The school was always small, and aimed more at culture and character training than mere accumulation of knowledge; most of the lessons were given in French by French teachers, but it was so modern even in 1899, when Mrs. Roosevelt attended it, as to possess a cricket team for girls. Several "extra" subjects could be taken if so desired, and we learn that those taken by Mrs Roosevelt were Italian, Latin, riding, skating, dancing and leather-work. She was greatly interested in literature and history.

It is pleasant to learn that the First Lady of America looks back with happy recollections on her school days, and that she regards the days spent at Wimbledon as being among her very happy ones. We can only hope that she has found her brilliant days at the White House happier still. It is certain that they have proved much more eventful.

Forestalling Libel Suits

Despite warnings, prefacing modern novels, of the fictitious nature of characters portrayed, many authors are still pestered by persons who profess to discover their images in some particular incident of the story. These persons are always threatening libel suits, and to forestall them Mr. Cameron McCabe, the Australian author, has hit on the following ingenious preface for his book, "The Face on the Cutting-Room Floor":

"Any person wishing to identify himself or herself, or any other person, dead or alive, with any character in this book, may do so at his or her own discretion. It shall be explicitly stated, however, that no such identification was intended by the author. Any person who doubts the author's word for this and accuses him—in spite of the above statement to the contrary—of having committed a libel, will therefore himself commit a libel—namely, that of accusing the author of telling lies, and will thus himself be sued for libelling the author. . . ."

To avoid chocolate icing being dull-looking, dissolve the chocolate gradually in water, and it can boil when quite smooth. It must, however, not be allowed to boil again when the icing sugar is mixed, but merely stirred gently until the right consistency. A tiny nut of butter added to icing will make it quite glossy.

Miss Betty Grable's summer suit has a blouse in many-coloured print and at her belt is slung a good useful handkerchief to match. She favours short socks with her woven straw shoes.

What People Have Said

Aldous Huxley (author); "Because the discoveries of seventy generations of mathematicians are at their disposal, many schoolgirls today know more about mathematics than Pythagoras did."

Edith Sitwell (poetess): "I am debarred from putting Miss X"—a noted writer of love stories—"in her place by the fact that she has not got one."

Walter Winchell (journalist): "The chorus girl definitely is not as scarlet as she is painted. Usually she is quite a pretty young person, literate, industrious, and clever."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt: "Woman's intuition, unaccompanied by experience and trained judgment, is far more dangerous than a slow process of reasoning, for it leads to snap judgments, prejudices, and stubbornness."

Peter Pan School

A British Education in a Cosmopolitan Atmosphere

It is not everyone who is aware that there is a British-run school at 692 Rue Bourgeat which at times has as many as 100 scholars on its roll. This is Mrs. R. A. Taylor's Peter Pan School for children up to 15 years old. She gave it the name of Peter Pan because it aimed at giving an education to both boys and girls in the spirit of Barrie's immortal creation.

Special attention is given to the teaching of languages—the children can study French, German, Russian, Chinese, the idea being that they shall not grow out of touch with their own tongues. At the same time a very English education is given with an English staff of teachers. The school has its own band!

There is a shady garden for games and drill, and many parents will like to know that the school will continue open in the mornings during the summer months.

Sun and Sea as Tonics

"Those whose teeth chatter, who go blue in the face, and have whitened, bloodless fingers after sea bathing, should learn their lesson and leave the sea alone," said Sir Henry Gauvain, M.D., F.R.C.S., when speaking on "Sunlight and Sea Bathing," in a lecture organized by the British Medical Association.

Red-haired and freckled people, he said, should take equal care about sun bathing; and all bathers, even those who browned well, should be content to start slowly.

But Sir Henry considered that "the vast majority of the population would benefit by the use of sun and sea bathing. They are tonic treatments which are incomparable in promoting physical fitness."

Vegetarian's "Meat" Dishes

Many Chinese abstain from eating meat for a month in Summer, and also on certain days in the other seasons. Such abstinence is for religious reasons. It is observed all the year round in Buddhist temples and monasteries.

For the large number of abstainers many vegetarian's dishes have been created. Some are quite fancy, reproducing poultry and meat dishes in their various styles of preparation. For this purpose bean curd is well adopted. It is the basic ingredient, well known for its nutritive value. Mushrooms and bamboo shoots are also important materials.

In Summer we serve Vegetarian's "Chicken", "Duck" and "Pork". The "Pork", with a Sweet and Sour Sauce, is almost an exact copy of the popular meat dish of that name. Some foreigners have heard about such dishes, but few have the opportunity of tasting them. A trial is suggested.

Hydrangeas and How to "Blue" Them

An Obligingly Hardy and Decorative Tub Plant

People of all countries seem to derive pleasure from growing plants in tubs. One of the easiest and most effective plants to grow thus is the hydrangea. It is immensely ornamental for use on terraces or in small paved gardens and in halls. The hydrangea has long been cultivated in China and Japan and the Japanese species is very hardy. Owing to its powerful roots it needs a large strong container—the simplest and best being a plain circular wooden tub held together by two or three iron bands and painted a bluish apple-green, this being a colour which weathers happily.

Obligingly Hardy

Hydrangeas will take no harm from several degrees of frost as long as they are dry and if, when frozen, they are allowed to thaw slowly. In sheltered gardens they can be left out all the winter, and in other gardens they can either be protected by matting or be lifted into an outhouse sufficiently frost-proof to give them some protection. Hydrangeas can be depended on to give a long flowering period and after the flowers are over the foliage is ornamental.

The Compost

The compost should consist of good turfy loam enriched by one quarter of its bulk of old manure with a little sand. For young plants, pot firmly in six-inch pots, allowing an inch of soil between the roots and the sides all round. During the second season the plants may be moved into tubs and fed with liquid manure.

As soon as the plants of hydrangeas go out of flower the faded heads should be removed and the side shoots shortened to render the plants more shapely. If they can conveniently be placed in a cold frame and watered carefully the young growths which form may be pulled away when a few inches long and used as cuttings. These root easily if planted in sandy soil in well-drained three-inch pots, one cutting to each pot.

"Blueing"

Hydrangeas are pink naturally and only obtain their blue colour by treatment, unless the ground in which they grow is known to contain a quantity of iron. Treatment should begin in August. First give a soaking of plain water, and then water with blueing powder added at the rate of one and a half ounces to two gallons of water. Repeat this three times at intervals of three weeks. During the following summer they will probably only need to be treated once unless the colour tends to revert to a washy pink. Plants that have been "blued" in the nursery before purchase will only need a small teaspoonful of blueing powder sprinkled round each plant and watered in once a year.

MARRIAGE

ABBOTT—TUCK.—On July 2, 1938 at Holy Trinity Cathedral, Shanghai, by the Rev. Dean A. C. S. Trivett, PHOEBE ELEANORE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tuck of Oxford, to WALTER EDGAR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Abbott of Belfast.

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

INDEPENDENCE DAY

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness, That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted amongst Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, That whenever any form of Government becomes destructive of these ends it is the Right of the People to alter or abolish it and to institute new Government, laying its foundations on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. .....

To many Americans those words are as familiar as those of some prayers and creeds of the Christian Church; to others they may not be so, for they are taken from early passages in the Declaration of Independence, unanimously adopted on July 4, 1776 by the "Representatives of the United States of America in General Congress assembled." They are portion of that instrument by which those States formally denounced their connection with Britain, an instrument which was the record of the birth of a new nation. They are even more, for they represent a complete statement of the principles of democracy and the emphatic enunciation of the rights of all peoples, even those unfortunate enough to make up what are now known as minorities. What manner of men were they who signed this fateful document? Forty-eight were native born Americans, eight were British born. There were lawyers—the largest proportion—merchants, farmers, physicians, a printer, for so Benjamin Franklin was described, a surveyor, a general, a shoemaker, a minister, a sailor and a statesman. They and their families were proscribed as traitors to the British Government and rewards of £500 were offered for their apprehension. Authority dies hard even in the face of such determined men, and they, or at least many of them, having placed their signs manual to so imposing an instrument lived long enough to realize that when they did so they had conferred their approval on one of the most historic documents of the world. They had defined democracy as it had never been before, and set down in writing the rights of every human being on the globe. They were not new ideas, for they had been harboured in the minds of many thinkers before them, but it was a crystallization of principles in a political document as important in the history of the Anglo-Saxon race as that signed by King John at Runymede.

The genesis of things is always interesting. On June 7, 1776, Richard Henry Lee, pursuant to a resolution of the Virginia House of Burgesses, adopted on May 15 of that year, introduced into the Continental Congress a resolution which declared "That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states, that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved." John Adams seconded the resolution, which was laid aside for a time, but during the month a committee was appointed to consider the Declaration, and the instrument drawn up by Jefferson and slightly amended by Adams and Franklin was presented to Congress on June 28. An entry in the Journal of the Continental Congress for July 4 reads:—"Agreeable to the order of the day, the Congress resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole to take into their further consideration the Declaration. The President resumed the Chair. Mr. Harrison (Chairman of the Committee of the Whole) reported that the Committee of the Whole Congress had agreed to the Declaration which he delivered in. The Declaration being read was agreed to." Brief words for so momentous an occasion, but they committed the colonies to the great gamble, and with them those who were to sign the Declaration, for the fortunes of war had not then been decided. It was to drag on for seven years more, and if the Colonies had lost the struggle, all those who had voted for the declaration, as well as those who had actually signed it, would, if caught, have had to pay the penalty of their treason to the British Crown. But courage and faith in the righteousness of their cause reinforced these men in their determination to uphold the Anglo-Saxon ideas of liberty and fight against a monarchy so ill-advised as to ignore the very warnings which were given it by many of its own leading statesmen. It must always be borne in mind that the War of Independence was Anglo-Saxon in its inspiration: the men who fought it were inspired with exactly those same ideals which animated the English in their constitutional struggle throughout all the previous centuries, and had that fact been more clearly realized it is possible that much of the early bitterness would never have been demonstrated. The rebels were fighting an old battle on a new terrain.

In these years when the ideals of democracy are being threatened by ideologies, which are not new, but revamped old, and discarded traditions, it is well that these things should be remembered. In many countries of the world political developments are progressing towards the denial of everything for which the Anglo-Saxon conception of democracy stands. The liberties of the subject, speech and press are being taken away from millions of humans who willingly or unwillingly are being subjected to a control to which those who hold the democratic faiths would find it so hard to submit, and for those deprived peoples only the equality of servitude remains. Looking back over the one hundred and sixty odd years that have passed since those brave determined men took the action they did, it was probably for the spiritual good of the British people that they had wrested from them one of their proudest possessions, and though the development of the British empire into a Commonwealth of nations has been but a comparatively recent development, who is to say that the bitter seeds then sown have not brought forth this more pleasant fruit? It is a matter for heartfelt gratitude that in the United States there is a growing sympathy with the position of the British people in world politics, and not only that, but a deeper understanding. The time may never come when the two great nations will be bound by any closer bonds than those which prevail at present. It may be undesirable that it ever should come, for formal bonds may prove more irksome than a mere common understanding. There is still something of the kinship of race, much of the kinship of political ideals to keep the two nations in sympathy. They should be fostered, for the day may come when only a united democracy will be able to save the world from the chaos which threatens it. It is with such ideas in mind that this year again, as in many years past, this journal has the privilege of extending to Americans in Shanghai and China the heartiest congratulations and the assurance that in their rejoicings they will be joined in sympathy by the British and other communities.

Press Indignation

It is by no means uninteresting that the Japanese newspapers should be indulging in a storm of criticism concerning the invocation of the escalator clause of the London Naval Treaty by parties to that document, notably Great Britain and the United States. It will be remembered that suspicions arose that Japan was building war vessels beyond the category established by the Treaty. Those suspicions were strong enough to cause Great Britain and the United States to make inquiries in Tokyo as to what Japan was doing, and the government of that country refused to disclose any information. Governments do not as a rule make such inquiries in the hope of obtaining information but rather to indicate the possession of unofficial information upon which they ask for confirmation or denial. The inquiries meant in effect that Great Britain and the United States were in possession of information showing that the limits of the London Naval Treaty were being exceeded by the Japanese Government. The latter could either affirm or deny it, or refuse to give any information though it was bound to do none of these. Of the three alternatives the first and third would be of a positive nature, and in the refusal to give any information was seen the admission of the truth of what they had been told. It is all very well for the Japanese Press to indulge in a big show of indignation over the matter, but there is no merit behind it. If the inquiries made at Tokyo were merely based on rumours, it was easy for the Japanese Government to deny them. That would have been the simplest course, and if the denial had been found to be consonant with the facts a new naval race would not have been started. If the additional building, which may become necessary from the Japanese point of view, bears heavily upon the finances of the country, the government has only itself to blame, but, as it appears to be becoming quite a genius for the accumulation of unnecessary burdens, the additional expenditure upon the navy will probably be regarded as one of those little things which just have to happen.

A Strange Story

A correspondent today casts doubts upon the truth of the story of the escape of General Lushkoff from Siberia into Manchoukuo as told by Domei. There is much to be said for his contention that the GPU might have at times arranged for the introduction of agents into certain countries in a manner calculated to obtain for them the greatest sympathetic consideration. If that has been the idea with regard to General Lushkoff the scheme is likely to prove a failure, for it has made the General a conspicuous figure in the eyes of the Japanese, and, consequently, one who will be under a close watch all the time he is in their hands. There are certain improbable features about the story which require further elucidation. Supposing his wife did manage to escape across the Polish border and did send the telegram about kisses which informed him of the success of her manœuvre, how does it come that the telegram was ever delivered to the suspected General? The GPU, if the General's story is correct, must have had him under observation for some time past, and the arrival of so mysterious a telegram would most certainly have put them on their guard, making it all the more difficult to believe that he did escape in the way he did. On the other hand unless his wife had succeeded in getting out of the country the Soviet would have one of those hostages which have been availed of in the past to bring errant sons back to the fatherland for punishment of offences fancied or real. If it is a genuine escape then the GPU were not only outwitted but did not know of the wife's enlargement until the husband himself had got free, which seems to indicate that the authorities in Moscow may find it necessary to indulge in a purge of the department. Obviously someone has blundered and should be punished for it. It is, perhaps, too early to refuse believe in the story General Lushkoff tells, but, if it is true, and he and his wife have in fact escaped, an impending doom, then they are both to be congratulated upon their astonishing luck.

NATURE NOTES

If I were asked what is the most beautiful sight in Nature, I think I would say the emerging of the imago, or perfect insect, of the cicada from the larva, or grub. This is something that may be observed here in Shanghai in any garden in which are a few fair sized trees from about 8 o'clock in the evening till midnight throughout the months of July and August. To see it at its best one must search the trunks of the trees with an electric torch till one finds a cicada grub which has just emerged from the ground and has crawled up a tree trunk, finally coming to rest at a convenient height for observation. An ugly little fellow this, with hunched back and crooked clawed legs, dirty yellowish in colour and often smeared with mud—hardly worth bothering about, it would seem. But watch it. Suddenly a longitudinal slit will appear in the thorax of the little creature, revealing pale green skin underneath the yellow outer integument. Imperceptibly the slit widens and one realizes that a living pulsating pale green form is somehow pushing its way out through the opening. Without being able to say how it happened, one presently perceives that the living thing within the brittle shell has succeeded in getting its head and thorax clear. Two pearl-like eyes glisten in the light of the torch as the body of the insect bends further and further backwards, till one wonders why it does not overbalance and fall to the ground. Then the slender legs, which have been withdrawn in some miraculous way from the casings of the larva's crooked mis-shapen appendages, begin waving in various directions as they feel for something to which to hang. Soon first one and then another, reaching forward, contacts the bark of the tree, on to which it hooks, and gradually the head and thorax of the insect are drawn forward once more into an upright position. There follows a period of seeming quiescence, but actually the little creature has been slowly withdrawing the posterior part of its body from its old shell, and, again before one has realized it, the abdomen is clear, and a new soft pale green form is seen resting on the now empty husk of the grub. After a short rest, it begins to crawl as it seeks a more secure position where the final stage of its transformation may take place. It may now be noticed that just back of the thorax are two protuberances. These are the wings of the insect, all crinckled and shrivelled up, as it were. Soon, however, it will be seen that they are slowly expanding. The intricate folds are straightening out. Suddenly this process quickens, and, almost before one realizes it, there appear the lovingly developed lace-like wings of the perfect insect. Before one's eyes a veritable miracle has taken place, for there, where but a short while ago was one of the ugliest things in Nature, is now something so perfect and so beautiful as to beggar description. This almost ethereal beauty lies in the pale jade-green colour of the insect and those gossamer wings, with their delicate veining and opalescent membranes. Before long, however, the body of the cicada and the veins in its wings begin to turn black as they harden in the air, and, by morning, the perfect insect will be ready to fly, and to take up that riotous life of light, love and song that is its brief reward for the thirteen or so years it has spent as an ugly burrowing crawling grub in the darkness of the earth below.—A. Britain Will Fight to Preserve Liberties

Premier Reveals Determination, But Stresses Efforts to Prevent Another Outbreak; Europe Kept Out of War by British Policy

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, July 3.

"IF there were no other way of preserving our liberties except by war, we would fight," declared the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, in a speech last night at Kettering. Nevertheless, he added, "we must strain every nerve to avoid a repetition of the Great War." Mr. Chamberlain was hopeful that Spain would soon be left to the Spaniards. He declared that British ships trading in Spain were getting four or five times the ordinary rates. Hence, he asserted, it was not reasonable that the Government should be asked to take action which might involve war, though this did not condone the bombing of ships or meant that Britain recognised the aerial blockade of ports.

The idea that Great Britain could be starved in wartime, the Prime Minister concluded, was entirely fallacious. "We have done everything to secure food supplies in wartime."—Reuter.

Kettering, July 2.

The Prime Minister was speaking today before an important Conservatives' meeting at Boughton House, the estate of the Duke of Buckleugh, when he made this firm announcement. Asserting that as Premier he "must spare no efforts to avoid a repetition of the Great War in Europe," Mr. Chamberlain declared, "We had endless difficulties in our policy, but despite the sneers and jeers of the Opposition, we succeeded in our main objects in keeping Europe out of war, and today at long last, the British plan for the withdrawal of volunteers in Spain has been accepted."

Referring to the aerial attacks on British vessels in Spanish ports, the Premier denounced "certain shipowners who, for the sake of making large profits, still send vessels into these waters despite the Government's warnings."

He then expressed satisfaction at the Nationalist General Franco's assurances that he had no intentions of deliberately attacking British ships and that previous bombings were due to the difficulties for aeroplanes flying at a high altitude to identify vessels' nationalities.

"I must admit that I find it rather difficult to reconcile this explanation with some of the facts, but perhaps, after all, General Franco's airmen do not always adhere rigidly to their instructions," Mr. Chamberlain added.

Proceeding with his address, the Prime Minister painted a reassuring picture of Britain as a military power. He affirmed that the country cannot be starved in case of war because the Navy and mercantile marine are able to keep open British trade routes while considerable food reserves are already piled up at home.

Re-Armament Programme

Insisting on the gigantic proportions of Britain's rearmament programme, he specified that orders for new warships placed since April, 1935, total in tonnage about half that of the entire fleet at that time.

"We are beginning to see the results today in the powerful new cruisers and destroyers, along with a lot of smaller craft, which are joining the seagoing fleet. Our enormous programme of battleship construction and reconstruction, meanwhile, ensures our continued supremacy in the class of capital ships."

Concluding his address, the Premier expressed the hope that all "peoples will finally consent to settle their differences without recourse to war. There is a great deal in prospect which still calls for watchfulness, but the Government are not asleep and every month which passes adds to the probability that we will come safely through our troubles."

In the earlier part of his speech, Mr. Chamberlain made an appeal to "some old time Liberals who have not yet thrown in their lot with the Government" to reconsider their attitude. "I cannot see anything inappropriate or difficult about their co-operating with us when I think about the social reforms that we have carried out, and, above all, of our conduct in foreign affairs, where the largest measure of national support is so preeminently desirable."—Havas.

Satisfaction In Rome

Rome, July 3.

Leading political quarters here appear to be particularly satisfied at the British Premier's speech at Kettering yesterday. In his address, delivered before a meeting of Conservatives, the Prime Minister gave a brief outline of his foreign policy and Britain's armaments programme.

Local circles laud Mr. Chamberlain's "most liberal policy," repeating praises which are heaped upon him almost daily by the Fascist Press. It is stressed here that Mr. Chamberlain's views on the question of non-intervention in Spain are little different from those held in Italian diplomatic quarters.—Havas.

Debt Settlement With Germany

Satisfaction Expressed in London Press; A Model For Future Agreements

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, July 3.

General satisfaction is expressed in the press today over the Anglo-German debt settlement, which is much better than seemed likely a month ago and certainly much better than what might have been enforced through compulsory clearing.

The diversion to cumulative sinking funds of the cut of two per cent. in the present seven per cent. Dawes Loan and of one per cent. in the present 5½ per cent. Young and Saarbruecken Loans is likely to go a long way towards satisfying German political objections to continued liability to meet high rates of interest.

News of the agreement was received with satisfaction in Berlin, where it is understood that the British settlement will become a model for subsequent agreements with other guarantor Powers, although agreements may differ in detail in accordance with various economic conditions prevailing between Germany and the respective parties.

The Bourse reacted favourably on publication of the first details of the agreement.

It is emphasised in Berlin that Germany will never refuse to pay her debts if given the possibility to pay, as Britain has now done.—Reuter.

Nationality Problem In Czechoslovakia

Britain and France Urge Quick Solution

Prague, July 3.

Great Britain and France are understood to have made representations to the Czech Government urging expedition in a solution of the nationalities problem. The full text of the Government's proposals is due for communication to the Sudeten Deutsche Party this week.—Reuter.

Prague, July 2.

The political day here was marked by the first meeting of the Senators and Deputies who form a committee which is to aid the Government to prepare the legal wording of the projected nationalities statute.

The close of the week was also featured by a somewhat obscure article in which Sudeten German Deputy Kundt gives the impression that the Sudetens have already exhausted their will to reach an entente with the authorities. This occurs at a time when the Germans just received certain parts of the projected nationalities statute and the bill on the employ of languages, which roused hopes that negotiations would soon enter a favourable phase.

Meanwhile, the Sudeten Party issued a communique today in which it stresses the inaccuracy of reports that the Germans have rejected certain Government proposals. "The Party can pronounce its judgment only when it receives all of the Government's proposals," the official despatch precises.—Havas.

Six Dead in Railway Crossing Crash

None Identified as Train Hits Motor Car

Quakertown, Pa., July 2.

Six persons were killed at a railway crossing two miles north of here today when their motor car was struck by a Lehigh Valley Transit Company express train.

The victims included three women, a girl about ten years of age, and two men. None was identified immediately. Four of them were killed instantly, while the two others died en route to a Quakertown hospital.

Authorities said papers scattered along the tracks indicated the victims were from Freeland, Pa., the two-car train was en route from Allentown to Philadelphia.—United Press.

Japanese War Capacity Examined

Half of Gold Reserves Already Expended

Berlin, July 3.

"How long can Japan continue fighting," is the subject of an enlightening article from the Tokyo correspondent to the "Berliner Boersenzeitung" which appeared yesterday evening.

The writer declares that the Japanese High Command decided as early as Autumn, 1937, not to confine the war to North China but to settle the entire Sino-Japanese problem with the sword, and the whole Japanese economic system was immediately reorganised so as to enable the country to carry on a military campaign of a long duration.

The principal difficulties at the present time are connected with imports since Japan must purchase abroad iron, steel, oils, chemicals, cotton, wool, leather and wood, all of which are necessary for military equipment. Due to her insular position and the naval control of the Far Eastern waters, the problem of importation is merely one of buying and paying but this in itself is serious because the imports exceeded the exports during the first year of war by a total of Y.700,000,000.

The monetary problem must also be met, and in order to prevent the Yen from sinking on foreign markets, Japan is compelled to sell gold to an extent of Y.379,000,000. The gold reserve in the state bank has sunk from Y.1,700,000,000 at the beginning of the conflict to Y.801,000,000 at the present time.

The writer declares that the Japanese are planning on exploiting the rich Chinese iron works near Hankow in order to relieve the situation at home.

Discussing the question as to whether the Japanese will extend the campaign into South China even at the risk of running into conflict with the British near Hongkong, the writer interprets one trend of the Japanese thought as maintaining that the territory conquered in Northern China is sufficient and that the war would be terminated if the Japanese were to content themselves with what has already been acquired. The Chinese, according to the Japanese way of thinking, would require years to develop sufficient strength to constitute a menace, and in this period of time the Japanese could strengthen the pro-Japanese circles of China to a point where they would dominate the country.—Trans-Ocean.

American Injured in Swatow Bombing

Foreign Property Damage Will Bring Protest

Hongkong, July 3.

Father Williams Downs, of Erie, Pennsylvania, was slightly injured and his home partly demolished during the recent bombing of Swatow by Japanese planes, according to the Maryknoll Roman Catholic Mission here.

Reports from Swatow state that a protest is likely to be made in connection with the damage done to foreign property as a result of air raids. Foreigners are being urged to evacuate Kakchiok by their respective Consuls.

Following Friday's disastrous visit, Japanese planes again roared over Swatow yesterday and bombed the railway station area.—Reuter.

7,000 People Attend Funeral

Victim of Riots at Memel Laid to Rest

Memel, July 2.

Seven thousand people watched the funeral ceremonies for the young Lithuanian, Gantantas, son of the Commander of the Lithuanian Gendarmery here, who suffered fatal injuries in the course of last Tuesday's rioting. The young man was the victim of attacks by the German Autonomous Police.

No incidents were reported during the funeral. Some 150 wreaths were placed on the young man's tomb. As a mark of respect, all shops in Memel were closed today.—Havas.

Dreadnought Speeds in United States Fleet to Be Studied

President Will Pay Special Attention During the Forthcoming Manœuvres; New Ships Likely

Washington, July 2.

PRESIDENT Roosevelt will pay especial attention to the speed of the super-dreadnoughts when he reviews the United States fleet in the Pacific the middle of this month and may issue a Presidential order emphasizing the necessity of increasing the speed of battleships authorized under the naval expansion bill, informed naval sources predicted today.

Some authorities consider the battleships' slow speed the weakest link in America's naval defence. Recent manœuvres showed that the battleship force was foundamentally weak, chiefly because of inability to keep abreast of other units. Despite strict secrecy maintained during manœuvres, the Pacific fleet problem, it was learned, was slowed down considerably because of the heavy battleships' slowness.

Authorities indicated that as soon as shore construction facilities are completed, the President will order the largest battleship building programme in the nation's history. A high naval officer said that probably at least six ships would be under construction within seven or eight months.

President Roosevelt may ask Congress in January to appropriate funds for three authorized battleships if international tension continues to mount.

Washington, July 2.

The Public Works Administration claimed today that heavy industry was already feeling the impetus of the Government's spending programme.

Officials said that full effects of the programme would not be felt for months but preliminary orders for materials had already re-employed thousands of workers.

"In addition to a stimulating effect on heavy industry," the administration announced, "the psychological effect of the new programme appears to be wide-spread." U.S. $400,000,000 has been allocated for projects since the recovery bill became effective.—United Press.

New Status for Pacific Islands

Washington, July 2.

Senator William H. King, Democrat of Utah, will introduce a measure in the next session of Congress to incorporate all Pacific Islands claimed by America into the territory of Hawaii, a high spokesman on territorial affairs informed the United Press today.

The measure will affect the line of islands including Canton, Enderbury, Palmyra, Jarvis, Baker and Howland with a possible request for termination of the naval status of Guam and Samoa Islands for inclusion under the territorial jurisdiction of Hawaii.—United Press.

Fires Increase in Manchoukuo

Acts of Sabotage Causing Concern to Authorities; Power Plant Razed

Mukden, July 3.

Serious concern prevails among the authorities as the result of an unprecedented increase in the number of fires in the larger centres in Manchoukuo.

Although not believing that any deliberate arson campaign is being carried out under the direction of an anti-Japanese organisation, the authorities profess some anxiety over the acts of sabotage revealed by investigations into the causes of the many fires which have blazed in many towns between Tsitsihar, on the northern frontier, to as far south as Dairen.

Some months ago the Tsitsihar Power Plant, which had just been recompleted, was razed by fire. It was the second time flames had destroyed this important power centre within a period of a little less than eighteen months.

In Mukden, an important aeroplane assembly plant went up in smoke towards the end of April. A severe press ban was imposed at the time, and estimates of the number of planes destroyed varied from 24 to 100.

Fire struck again a few weeks later when two important military warehouses situated but a few miles from the centre of Mukden went up in flames. During the same period reports from Dairen conveyed news of the burning of oil tanks, and recently a number of warehouses along the harbour quays there were reduced to ashes.

The authorities are taking every precaution to prevent a recurrence of these fires. Military depots are closely watched, whilst periodic roundups of suspicious characters are made.

From time to time press reports carry news of the detention and examination of "undesirable" elements, and it is by this process that the country is being cleared of those who might threaten its security rather than by any mass purge, as some reports have indicated.—Reuter.

Jews in Austria

Vienna, July 3.

No decision has yet been reached on the question of the dismissal of all Jewish employees in Austrian industry and business, which should have come into effect on July 1.

Reuter is informed that the question is still under consideration. Some Jews have had their dismissal order rescinded for a month.—Reuter.

Feeding Population Main Problem Before Spanish Cabinet

People in Capital Getting Meat Twice A Week; Govt. Troops Driven Into Mountains

Barcelona, July 3.

Except for the capture of a couple of villages by the insurgents there has been little change in the war situation in the past week. After receiving a vote of confidence from the Cortes yesterday the Cabinet has been in almost continuous session, the chief concern being the problem of feeding the population.

Supplies to Madrid are now being guaranteed at the rate of 150 grammes of bread per person daily and 100 grammes of frozen meat twice a week.—Reuter.

Nationalists Secure Gain

Hendaye, July 2.

Nationalists today made the first appreciable gains in ten days of intense fighting on the Mediterranean coast when troops under Gen. Valino drove the Republicans deep into the Sierra Espadan mountains which are the last important natural defence before the cities of Sagunto and Valencia.

The Nationalist forces began to encircle the mountains to reach Secorbe and the Teruel-Sagunto highway. Republican troops, however, staunchly defended all approaches to Sagunto whose fall would deprive the Government of its main steel source.

To protect the city, the Republican command has constructed defences of trenches, pill boxes and barbed wire to a depth of eleven miles and has mustered the service of every available male.

Meanwhile Nationalist planes repeatedly bombed Sagunto, Valencia and nearby villages, seriously interfering with troop movements and fortification work.

It was estimated that the Nationalists suffered 30,000 casualties in the past two months drive on Castellon de la Plana and Sagunto. Republicans were said to have borne 40,000 casualties.—United Press.

Sound Position Of Canada

Sir John Simon's Tribute To Balanced Economy; An Example to World

London, July 2.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir John Simon, was the principal guest at the Dominion Day dinner of the Canada Club held in London last night. Mr. Vincent Massey, High Commissioner for Canada, was in the chair, and the guests included the Lord Chancellor, Lord Maugham, and Lord Stanley, Dominions Secretary.

In proposing the toast of Canada, Sir John Simon congratulated that country on the satisfactory financial and economic position in which she found herself today. It was, he said, a tribute to the well-balanced economy which had been built up by successive Dominion Governments that, notwithstanding depressed world economic conditions and the failure of her own wheat crop, Canada's accounts for the past financial year showed that revenue for that period was higher than at any previous time in her history.

There could be no better evidence of the soundness of Canada's economic position and of her ability to meet the future with confidence.

Growth of Trade

Sir John Simon quoted statistics showing the remarkable growth of trade between the United Kingdom and Canada in the past few years, and expressed a hope that their mutual trade would continue to advance.

Lord Stanley, he said, was visiting Canada to perform the ceremony of opening the Canadian National Exhibition, which had been held at Toronto every year since 1879 and was this year celebrating its golden jubilee. The British Government would have a pavilion specially dedicated to communications and transport, which would illustrate how greatly contacts between various parts of the Empire were being developed by increasing the ease of movement between them.

In this age when, in certain parts of the world, racial animosity was regarded almost as if it was a hallmark of patriotism, Canada set an example of how the spirit of freedom was best promoted by reconciliation between different races and different points of view.

Recovery From Depression

Mr. Massey said that they had been more fortunate than they realized in their recovery from the great depression. Last year in Canada, in relation to population, employment was greater, production and dividend payments were proportionately more substantial, the cost of living was lower, and the relative increase in national debt far less than in the United States.

Again, in the 24 months just ended, the index of business activity in Canada had suffered about one-quarter of the decline which it met in the neighbouring country—that in spite of the comparative failure of last year's wheat crop.

These were impressive facts, and although economists rarely agreed on anything, they would undoubtedly concur in the view that Canada had been fortunate in acquiring, in a striking degree, both stability and self-reliance as well as a more balanced economy.

One of the factors which had helped them to stand more firmly on their own economic footing was the development of Imperial trade and the system of preference between themselves and other British communities.—Wireless through Reuter.

A.R.P. Chief Inspects Industrial Areas

Mr. Geoffrey Lloyd Tours The Provinces

London, July 2.

Mr. Geoffrey Lloyd, Parliamentary Under Secretary for Home Affairs, and newly appointed in charge of the Air Raid Precautions Department, yesterday made the first of a series of tours of industrial centres.

Using the aeroplane as his means of transport, he visited Doncaster, Manchester and Birmingham and was accompanied by officials of the department.—Wireless through Reuter.

Japanese Warships Bombed

Chinese Claim Planes Sank Aircraft Carrier And Destroyers; Yangtze Air Activities

Hankow, July 3.

SWOOPING low over Japanese warships at Anking, and braving intensive anti-aircraft fire, and attacks from Japanese pursuit 'planes, a squadron of nine Chinese bombers sank a Japanese aircraft-carrier and two destroyers early this morning, it is reported by Chinese Aviation Headquarters. The Chinese airmen are also stated to have heavily bombed the Japanese aerodrome at Wuhu. Taking advantage of the fact that Japanese pursuit 'planes "were probably not patrolling the aerodrome at night, it is reported, the Chinese bombers took off this morning before daybreak for Wuhu. Here, they are said to have heavily bombed the aerodrome, but the results of the attack are said to be unknown, owing to the pitch darkness.

Later, squadrons of Chinese bombers are said to have taken off to bomb the Japanese aircraft carrier at Anking. The aircraft carrier is stated to have been protected by a fleet of Japanese destroyers, with five Japanese pursuit 'planes circling around watchfully overhead. There were also said to have been five Japanese pursuit 'planes on the deck of the ship.

Braving the most intensive anti-aircraft fire from Japanese warships, and also an attack by the defending Japanese pursuit 'planes, the Chinese bombers are said to have swooped down, and released six-hundred pound bombs on the aircraft carrier, and the two destroyers. The Chinese pilots reported that the aircraft carrier and the two destroyers were sunk.

The carrier was said to have been a larger vessel than was expected, since the Chinese authorities had formerly believed that it was of a small type, without space for landing or taking off, and using only cranes to hoist or lower its brood of 'planes. To their surprise, the report by Chinese Aviation Headquarters states, the Chinese pilots found that the carrier had deck space for aircraft, with five 'planes aboard. They estimated that the warship was over 10,000 tons.

Matung Boom Crossed

Definite confirmation that Japanese warships have crossed the Matung boom was provided by a communique issued today by the Chinese Aviation Headquarters, which said that Chinese aircraft yesterday bombed six large Japanese warships west of Matung. The situation on the south bank of the Yangtze, in the vicinity of Pengtseh, is obscure.

Chinese despatches today, in confirming the fall of Matung, say that Chingshanpa, west of Matung, fell on June 29, while one report adds that Pengtseh was captured on July 1 but was recaptured subsequently.

Official messages, however, claim that Pengtseh has always been in Chinese hands, although they admit that Japanese troops have been landed west of Pengtseh in the vicinity of Liangliangmiao and Tangshan.

The Chinese forces in the region of Kiukiang this morning launched a counter-attack against Japanese positions east of Pengtseh, situated about 30 miles east of Kiukiang, according to a Chinese military communique. The attacking forces are said to be making considerable progress.

Detachments of Chinese troops are also reported to have begun an attack on the Japanese positions south-east and north-east of Yuanchu, situated on the north bank of the Yellow River about 40 miles west of Loyang. The Japanese at Chingchen, situated about 50 miles north-east of Loyang, the communique adds, are now moving northwards in the direction of Kaoping, which lies about 20 miles due north of Chingchen.—Reuter.

Seven Chinese Planes Downed

Seven Chinese bombing aircraft, sent to attack Japanese naval concentrations on the Yangtze yesterday, were brought down by Japanese combat machines and anti-aircraft fire, a communiqué issued by the Japanese China Seas Fleet command claimed last evening. Three out of four Chinese bombers, forming the first raiding unit to appear near the Anhwei capital, were shot down by Japanese naval aircraft, the communiqué said.

In a subsequent raid by 10 Chinese machines, two were brought down in aerial combat, while two others were hit and destroyed by anti-aircraft fire. The remainder of the Chinese machines fled after dumping their bombs at random, the communique stated.

A Chinese gunboat operating on the Yangtze in the vicinity of Tienkiachen, approximately 60 kilometres upriver from Kiukiang, was bombed and sunk, yesterday, the communique added.

On Saturday a Chinese aerial squadron consisting of about four planes raided Japanese positions four times, but every time they were easily repulsed by Japanese planes, the statement said. Engaging a Soviet SB bomber, a Japanese pursuit plane piloted by Warrant Officer Yamada, third class, brought it down in a violent combat, the communique continued. No damage was done to the Japanese planes in the encounters.

Gunboat Disabled

Referring to the bombing of Chinese positions on both sides of the Yangtze on Saturday, the communique said that naval air squadrons which attacked concentrations of Chinese troops, also bombed a Chinese gunboat at Wusueh on the Yangtze, about 45 kilometres west of Kiukiang, and disabled it so that it could not navigate.

Another Japanese Naval air squadron heavily bombed the headquarters and concentrations of troops in Tsingyang in southern Anhwei Province. All bombs hit military objectives and "almost annihilated" them, the communiqué claimed.

Japanese "sea hawks" continued their activities in South China on Saturday. They blew up several freight cars at the Yingtak station of the Canton-Hankow Railway, tracks at five points near Yingtak, more than 10 military freight cars at Sitsun and tracks at two places there, according to Domei.

Chinese Reds in Disfavour

Communist Popularity on Wane; No Useful Help to Hankow Government

Hankow, July 3.

The popularity and influence once enjoyed by the Chinese Communists are steadily on the decline. The Chinese Communist Party and the Chinese Red Army (8th Route Army) enjoyed a brief period of nation-wide popularity during the early stages of the present Sino-Japanese hostilities, when hundreds of Chinese students went daily into Shensi to join the 8th Route Army on literature concerning almost legendary achievements, of the Chinese Red Army and their leaders flooded the bookstores.

Since the commencement of the "second period of the present Sino-Japanese war" (Hsuchowfu battle), however, the popularity of the Chinese communists has suffered a serious setback. Very little can be heard now about what is happening to the 8th Route Army or their leaders.

The main cause of this change of attitude towards the Chinese communists is the realization of the public that General Chiang Kai-shek and his armies must, after all, be relied upon for China's resistance against the Japanese, combined with a feeling that the Chinese Communist Party and the 8th Route Army have failed to make any valuable contribution towards the cause of Chinese resistance

No Assistance From Russia

While the 8th Route Army in Shansi and Hopei provinces has given valuable assistance to the Chinese army in operations in these provinces, the public has come to feel that the 8th Route Army is but one of hundreds of other Chinese units which are fighting the Japanese.

At first an additional reason for the popularity of the Communists was the belief that their co-operation would secure the co-operation of Soviet Russia. Now, however, it is felt that Soviet Russia's help to China is based on the policy that the more effective resistance China can put up, the more remote will be a war between Soviet Russia and Japan. The question whether the Chinese Government is procommunist or not, is not the vital issue.

It must be pointed out, however, that General Chiang Kai-shek wishes to maintain closest relations with the Chinese Communist Party leaders in order to ensure national unity.—Reuter.

Paracels Occupied by France

Group Near Hainan is Now In French Control

London, July 3.

The French Government recently informed H.M. Government that they have definitely occupied the Paracel Islands, lying south east of Hainan Island, diplomatic circles here declared.

It was recalled in that connection that following the Great War, France had provisionally occupied this tiny archipelago and established French sovereignty thereon.

The French expedition which went recently to the Paracels met two Japanese cruisers which were plying near the islands; cordial visits were exchanged between the officers of the two navies, it was reported.—Havas.

Rains Cause Further Damage in Japan

Heavy Downpour Hits Heart Of Tea District

Tokyo, July 3.

Heavy rains were falling over the Kwanto district of Japan again today causing slight landslides in the Kanagawa and Yokohama areas. No damage was reported in the capital, however.

Shizuoka in the centre of the tea country suffered from the rain and much tea was believed to have been damaged. Ibaraki and Satami prefectures suffered heavy losses in mulberry trees which, it was believed, would lower silk worm production.—United Press.

U.S. Budget Deficit

Washington, July 2.

The 1937-1938 fiscal year in the United States was brought to a close with the Budget showing a deficit of $1,459,000,000, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., State Secretary of the Treasury, announced today. This deficit compares with those of the 1935-36 and 1936-37 fiscal years, when deficits were $4,361,000,000 and $2,707,000,000 respectively.

During the past year, which closed on June 30, revenues amounted to $6,242,000,000 while expenditure was $7,701,000,000.—Havas.

July Fourth Celebrations

American Community of Shanghai Will Observe National Festival Today

TODAY is the "Glorious Fourth", greatest of America's national holidays, and, to celebrate the occasion, the American community in Shanghai have drawn up a spectacular programme of events which will take place throughout the day, culminating at night with a firework display and the annual Fourth of July Ball.

At 8.30 a.m. the flag-raising and ceremonial parade of the Fourth Regiment, United States Marine Corps, and other American defence units in the city, will take place on the polo field of the Racecourse. The ceremony is open to all and American flags will be presented to the children attending the ceremonies with the compliments of Mr. Frank P. Lockhart, American Consul-General, and Mrs. Lockhart. Following the flag-raising ceremony a twenty-one gun salute will be fired. From 11.30 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. the U.S. Consul-General will hold an official reception at the Columbia Country Club; admission to this will be by invitation only. From 12.30 p.m. to 1.30 p.m. the American Club will hold "Open House" to members and their guests.

Sports Events

The day's celebrations continue at 3 p.m. when the annual ball game for the Community Cup, between the Fourth Marines and the Shanghai Amateurs, will be fought on the Racecourse baseball field. There will be no charge for admission to this game, although the grand stand will be reserved for patrons. The game should produce plenty of thrills as the Amateurs will go all out to avenge their defeat last year.

At 5 p.m. the "Cowboys" and the "Troopers" will compete for the British Fourth of July Polo Cup, and, as in the ball game, no charge for admission will be made.

The sky over the western area will be aglow at 9 p.m. when the annual display of fireworks in the grounds of the Columbia Country Club takes place. This is open to club members and their families, including children. The day's festivities will culminate with the Fourth of July Ball at the Columbia Country Club, during the course of which a buffet supper will be served. The event is open to club members and their guests and a large section of the local American community will be present.

Traffic Arrangements

The following traffic arrangements have been made by the Shanghai Municipal Police:—

Flag Raising Ceremony, 8.30 a.m.

All cars will enter and leave the Recreation Ground by the Loong Fei Gate.

All parking will be under the direction of the Shanghai Municipal Police as under:—

(a) Motor cars bearing special windscreen notices "A" will park near the Recreation Club.
(b) Motor cars bearing special windscreen notices "B" will park near the Cricket Club.
(c) Other cars will park on the mud track of the Race Course.

In order to relieve congestion at the Loong Fei Gate, no vehicles will be allowed to leave the Recreation Ground between 8 a.m. and 8.30 a.m. or allowed to enter between 9 a.m. and 9.30 a.m.

Parking space is also available on Mohawk Road for persons wishing to enter the Recreation Ground via the Race Club Gate on Bubbling Well Road.

American Club—Open House

Special Parking Space will be reserved on Foochow Road (south side) between Kiangse and Szechuen Roads, and on Kiangse Road (west side) between Foochow and Hankow Roads.

The Car Park on Hankow Road (north side) between Kiangse and Honan Roads will also be available but not specially reserved.

Guests who already have their cars parked down town and within easy reach of the Club are advised that they will probably save time and trouble by proceeding to the Club on foot or by rickshaw.

Base Ball Game:—3 p.m.
Polo Game:—5.30 p.m.
Recreation Ground.

Cars may park on the mud track of the Race Course under direction of Police on duty.

Tobacco Factory Again Quiet: Police on Guard

Reserve Unit Also Active Against Terrorists

A strong police guard from the Pootoo Road Station yesterday guarded the troubled China Fou Shing Tobacco Factory, 521 Macao Road, where some 1,600 "sit-down" strikers were evicted on Saturday morning. The strike had been called on Friday because of reduced working hours. The following day a large force of police, composed of all available men from the Pootoo Road Station and a detachment from the Reserve Unit, ejected the strikers after the latter had interfered with a truck which was about to leave the premises. Tools, boxes and pieces of furniture were thrown at the police.

Yesterday the factory remained closed, with police stationed to prevent the workers from re-entering and starting new trouble.

The Reserve Unit was again active in various districts of the Settlement yesterday. Searches were made, particularly as a measure directed against terrorists. At the same time patrols were maintained by the Russian Regiment, S.V.C., and the First Battalion, the Seaforth Highlanders, on important thoroughfares of the Central and Louza districts.

A patrol composed of three members of the Japanese Military Police, in uniform and carrying side-arms, operated in Nanking Road yesterday afternoon.

M. G. Sabattie Leaves Shanghai for France

F.M.C. Gold Medal For Censeur des Etudes

M. G. Sabattié, assistant headmaster of the French Municipal College, leaves this city for France tomorrow, terminating his 24 year's association with this French Concession's cultural institution.

In 1914, when the then newly established college, began to expand, M. G. Sabattié, on his own demand, was transferred from Indo-China to this city, where since that time he has been closely connected with the work, expansion and improvement of College Municipal, whose teaching staff he headed in 1925-1926 and in 1930-1931.

The French Municipal College founded by the municipality in 1911, was the first French school to be opened in this city. In 1926, through efforts of M. Naggiar, who at that time was local French Consul-General, the school's status was raised to that of college, and began to prepare its students for the baccalauréat. Until 1934 this degree was given to the graduates by the Aurora University, but in that year the Ministry of Education authorized the college to grant this diploma.

Now the college has over 400 students and twenty teachers. The French Municipality has awarded M. G. Sabattié the Municipal Gold Medal, in recognition of his services to the French Concession.

German's Attack on Espionage

Travel Magazine Denounced As Ruse of Agents

Berlin, July 3.

A concerted attack on the espionage activities of a western power which carries on its work through a central espionage bureau is made in the German press yesterday evening, a lengthy statement by the official German news agency being printed in all newspapers.

Asserting that the method of the central bureau consists in persuading German citizens to enter the espionage service, the official news agency recalls the warning in the German press last August to Germans who might be attracted by lucrative offers for information of a military nature.

"The agents of this foreign espionage organization evidently believe that the Germans have forgotten this warning", the statement goes on to declare, "and recently advertisements have begun to appear in German and foreign newspapers applying for contributions to a travel magazine published by a foreign company, the address for contributions being the Bureau Telegraaf, Amsterdam, Holland."

Those who answered the advertisement were then requested to send in material dealing with technical, economic and aeronautical topics of military importance. The advertisements are signed by Dr. Norbert Martinger-Lina and Dr. Philipp R. Malin, both of Paris.

Declaring that these insertions are merely a clever ruse to entice unsuspecting Germans to betray their country, the official news agency reminds the people that the penalty for deliberate betrayal of military secrets is death and that the revelation of such information out of headlessness or carelessness can result in a high prison sentence.—Trans-Ocean.

Police Investigate Hongkew Market

Strict Action Against Food Stall Owners

Drastic steps were taken by the Japanese consular police on Saturday afternoon against merchants of the Hongkew market in a shop-to-shop examination of goods, local Japanese papers reported yesterday.

Working in four squads, the police examined goods at 170 stalls of the Hongkew market for two hours. Decomposed and otherwise unfit goods were confiscated at 30 shops, while the merchants were strictly reprimanded.

Sixteen restaurants and tea booths on the upper floor of the market were ordered to close by July 15 on the ground that their hygienic conditions are not up to requirements, the "Mainichi" said.

England-Australia Flight Completed

Flying Boat Links Up Two Countries in 7 Days

Port Darwin, July 3.

The Imperial Airways flying-boat Challenger arrived here at 8.10 a.m. today (British Standard Time) completing the England-Australia flight inaugurating the longest direct air route in the world in seven days.

A last-minute change was made at Singapore, when the Challenger was selected to complete the journey in place of the Cordelia, which had set out from Southampton for Sydney on the inauguration trip.

The Challenger accompanied the Cordelia from Karachi to Singapore.—Reuter.

Jacquinot Zone Food

The International Refugee Committee was reported in Chinese circles to have announced yesterday that food supplies for the refugees of the Jacquinot Zone, Nantao, are sufficient to last about two more weeks. At the end of last month, it was reported that the Jacquinot Zone was badly in need of food for its refugees, but fresh supplies were subsequently obtained.

Guerillas Attack Motor Convoy

14 Japanese Shot Near Chapu on Return Trip to Shanghai

Twelve Japanese soldiers and two civilians were killed or wounded when a motor truck carrying 16 Japanese soldiers was attacked by Chinese guerillas on the highway from Chapu to Kashing, about 80 kilometres southwest of Shanghai, in the morning of June 29, according to a delayed report brought here yesterday by one of the travellers.

Mr. Matao Nakajima, 40, and four Japanese soldiers were killed instantly, while Mr. Sakae Akino, the other civilian traveller, and eight soldiers were wounded, the "Nippo" said yesterday morning.

Mr. Nakajima and Mr. Akino left Shanghai for Chapu on June 26 on business. They reached their destination safely about 3.30 o'clock the same day and after having finished their business they were permitted to ride in a motor lorry with the 16 Japanese soldiers on their way back from Chapu to Pinghu, about 20 kilometres north of Chapu, about 7 o'clock the following morning.

Entrenched in Buddhist Temple

Three more trucks carrying Japanese troops attached to the local garrisons followed the first car. They rode for about 40 minutes after leaving Chapu, when the car running ahead was attacked suddenly by a fusillade of machine-gun shots fired by a band of Chinese guerillas entrenched in a Buddhist temple about 20 metres from the road.

Taken by surprise, the Japanese were unable to return the fire for a few minutes. About 50 or 60 Chinese continued the attack. Mr. Nakajima received a bullet wound in the head and collapsed in the truck. Mr. Akino jumped out and hid on the side of the road farthest from the Chinese.

The three other trucks reached the scene in short time and all the Japanese soldiers deployed along the road to battle the Chinese. A stiff fight lasted an hour; the Chinese at last abandoned their positions, leaving eight dead.

Mr. Akino returned to Shanghai with Mr. Nakajima's body on Saturday night. He is recovering at the Foomin Hospital.

Naval Treaty Action Criticized

Japanese Press Attacks Britain and America

Tokyo, July 3.

Britain and America were criticized by Japanese newspapers yesterday for invoking the escalator clause of the London Naval Treaty of 1936 and increasing capital ship tonnage from 35,000 to 45,000 tons.

Leading the editorial barrage, the "Nichi-Nichi" took to task England and America for their alleged "crafty move" to increase naval armament by "taking advantage of groundless rumours," which the paper suspected were "spread by them deliberately." "Wild rumours regarding the China hostilities designed to compromise Japan have been persistently spread in England and America," the journal charged.

The "Nichi-Nichi" suspected that "most of the groundless rumours were circulated deliberately with an ulterior motive, just like the rumour regarding Japan's super-warship building, which now has been utilized for invoking the escalator clause."

The Yomiuri, another leading newspaper, declared that a "super-warship era has been ushered in by England and America, who hurled a false accusation against Japan in their attempt to legalize their naval expansion policy."—Domei.

Naval Officer Fined For War Book

Japanese Convicted for Writing on China War

Tokyo, June 30.

Captain Kotoku Mizuno, retired, was fined in the local court on the grounds that his book, "Information on the War," written after a visit to battle scenes in China last September, violated the Publications Law. Captain Mizuno, says the "Nichi Nichi," became a humanitarian after the Manchurian and Shanghai incidents.

The Japanese authorities hold that his present book is likely to mislead the public in the present wartime emergency and, therefore, is disturbing to peace and order. No indication has been given as to the actual manner in which Captain Mizuno transgressed the law.—Reuter.

Fourth Marines Church

Another capacity congregation attended the church service and concert held at the Grand Theatre yesterday morning by the Fourth Marines, with many unable to gain admittance. Chaplain Frank R Hamilton, of the United States Fourth Marines, conducted the service and delivered an interesting sermon on the subject "Moral Mastery." As a special number in the service, a clarinet quintet, consisting of five members of the band, rendered "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" by Parks. The Fourth Marines' Band opened the worship service with the prelude "Coeur Brise" by Gillet and also played the beautiful selection "Shades of Night" by Friedland for the Offertory. Mr. Willis Hathaway, of the Navy Y.M.C.A., conducted the singing of the two hymns and the Fourth Marines' Band furnished the music.

Concert soloist was Private First Class Milton W. Potter, of the Marine Band, who rendered two saxophone solos with accompaniment by the Band. For his first number Potter played "Scenes That Are Brightest" from "Maritana" by Wallace and continued with Von Flotow's lovely selection "Last Rose of Summer." The Fourth Marines' Band, conducted by Staff Sergeant William R. Stuart, opened the concert with the stirring overture "Flying Artillery" by Bergenholtz and also played "Daughter of the Regiment" by Von Flotow. As a special feature in the concert, the combined Fourth Marines' drum and trumpet corps and band rendered Souza's well-known march "Semper Fidelis." The programme concluded with the playing of the Marines' Hymn and the American National Anthem, by the Marine Band.

Soviet General's Secrets

Tokyo, July 2.

Despite Moscow's denial of the reports, local papers today published a statement reported to have been signed by Gen. G. S. Lushkov, described as former Far Eastern Soviet Commissar for internal affairs, and asserting that M. Joseph Stalin planned to exhaust China and thereafter annex parts of it.

The reports did not clear up the question of Gen. Lushkov's present whereabouts although the stories were given a Tokyo date line. He was said to be under official protection after having crossed the Manchoukuo border near Hunchun and taking refuge with Manchoukuoans.—United Press.

Assassination Plot Being Investigated

Search On for Men Who Attempted General's Life

Police of the French Concession and the International Settlement were yesterday continuing their investigation into the attempt to assassinate Gen. Teng Pen-ying, Cantonese retired Garrison Commander of Hainan Island, on Friday afternoon. The principals of the plot, two Chinese, were being sought and the authorities also were anxious to learn the identity of a Japanese who, it is said, met these two men in Chi Mei Road about an hour before the attempt on the life of the former military leader.

The two Chinese, armed, went to the General's residence in Bedford Terrace after, it is alleged, they had parted company with the Japanese. The remarkably alert elderly army officer tussled with the intruders and threw them down the stairs of his house, after which they fled. Their car was subsequently in an accident in Bubbling Well Road, where they abandoned it, leaving a fully loaded military Mauser pistol and a smaller automatic pistol in it. Both weapons had a round of ammunition in the breech.

The Settlement and French Concession Police continued their strict vigilance vis-a-vis terrorists and other suspects yesterday and many searches were made in both territories, while special patrols continued to operate.

Poland's Sea Festival Celebrated Yesterday

Youth Assn. Act Hosts To Polish Community

Gaily decorated with numerous white and red flags, and filled with brightly dressed crowds the spacious garden of the local Polish Legation at 26 Rte. Delastre had a festive appearance yesterday, when local Polish Youth Association were hosts to the Polish community on the occasion of National Sea Festival.

Mr. P. Mroz, the chairman of the association, opened the festival with a speech, which was followed by a lecture outlining the importance of sea trade for Polish economy delivered by Mr. K. Komarowski. Miss J. Kraskiewicz then gave a recitation dedicated to Poland's newly acquired sea, after which the garden party was carried on.

The Polish Minister and Mme. Barthel de Weydenthal, the Polish Consul-General and Mme. Krysinski, were among the guests of honour at this enjoyable affair organized by committee presided over by Mr. P. Mroz, chancellor of the Polish Legation, and including Messrs. K. Komarowski, J. Mroz, E. Adamowicz, A. Sienkiewicz and K. Banucki.

The Sea Festival is held every year to express Poland's determination to develop and improve her rapidly growing sea trade which is so vital for that country's economic welfare. Early in 1920, when that country regained Pomerania, a picturesque ancient ceremony was celebrated;—a detachment of Polish cavalry galloped down the shore and entering the waters of the Baltic, hurled a golden ring into the sea to mark "Poland's betrothal to the Sea."

The country quickly became "sea conscious" and the first national port of Gdynia rapidly grew from a small fishing hamlet into a modern port which handles a large proportion of the Baltic sea trade.

Black Arrow Division Dissolved

Unit in Spain Put Under Volunteer Command

Rome, July 2.

The "Black Arrow Division" of the Italian troops in Spain was dissolved today and placed under the orders of the "Volunteer Troops Command." The general in charge of this body of men issued a communique today.

In this official despatch, he specifies that the number of men in the "Black Arrow Division" today is greater than that at the time, eleven months ago, when it was formed. This, despite the fact that his division had suffered heavy casualties in the hostilities.

There are now 17,191 men and 969 officers as compared to 13,046 men and 463 officers eleven months ago, the communique precises. The despatch concludes in recalling the division's battle honours.—Havas.

Roumanian Jews

Bucharest, July 3.

The examination of the rights of Jews to Roumanian nationality, a measure decided upon by the late M. Octavian Goga's Government last January, was completed today. However, the names of Jews struck off the list of those possessing Roumanian papers has not yet been published.

The communique of the Ministry of Justice, which announces the termination of the examination of Jews' rights, specifies that the belongings of people who have now lost their Roumanian nationality cannot be confiscated. Such a measure may be taken only in the event of treason, the official dispatch precises.—Havas.

Rice Supplies Bought For Shanghai

300,000 Piculs Will Ease Local Shortage

Between 300,000 and 400,000 piculs of rice have been purchased in Nanking and Wuhu by agents of Shanghai merchants.

As soon as transportation facilities are available, the rice will be brought to Shanghai to alleviate the shortage of rice in Shanghai. The price of rice here recently soared to $14 a picul, causing the Rice Merchants Association to impose a ban on shipments of rice from Shanghai.

Chinese Dies of Stab Wounds in Louza

A case of suspected suicide by stabbing was being investigated yesterday by detectives attached to Louza Station. The victim was a Chinese man who was removed by ambulance shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday morning from a house near the intersection of Lloyd and Ningpo Roads. The man, when admitted to St. Luke's Hospital, was dead.

"What Can I Do For Him?"

Every Woman Who Has An Over-worked, Worried, Run-Down Husband Should Have Him Try

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The finest tonic for every man who has become over-wrought, nervous, enfeebled, run-down, through over-work, business worries, or other cause, is a good long holiday—preferably on the sea—where he can have complete change of air, food, and environment. But unfortunately it is not always possible—especially here in the Far East—to get away from the daily round. Responsibilities are too great, leave-of-absence is not to be had for the mere asking, sea trips are expensive and hardly to be thought of these hard times.

What then is to be done? The next best thing is to take a good blood and nerve tonic, and the best of all tonics is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For over half a century these world-famous Pills have been restoring health and strength to weak, nerve-racked, despairing men—and women too. Their first effect is to revive lost appetite. Then they aid digestion, build up the nerves, restore the blessing of sound invigorating sleep, and the good rich, red blood they make at every dose carries new nourishment, health and strength throughout the whole system. Innumerable sufferers have built-up and revitalized themselves through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in this way. There is nothing better for rheumatic sufferers, because they clear the blood of the poisons which are rheumatism's cause. Women all over the world value them too as a specific for the backpains, headaches and other miseries which afflict so many of their sex between maidenhood and middleage.

Of chemists everywhere. Why not begin your own cure to-day?

When matches fail to light

Your Carpets need Special Attention

When the weather is damp, and you find it difficult to light a match, you would be well advised to take a good look at your carpets.

Excessive dampness causes mould; moisture-spots form, and, before you know what happens, carpets are ruined.

Protect your carpets—send them to the Cathay Cleaners for storage.

Carpets sent to the Cathay Cleaners for storage are first gently shampooed to remove all trace of introdden dirt, dried in indoor drying-rooms independent of the weather outside, then placed in storage under ideal conditions and insured free against fire risk. The storage godown is in the S.M.C. controlled area.

It is announced in "Le Matin" that big autumn manœuvres of the French Army will take place during the second half of August in the region of Grenoble-Briancon.

Lt.-Col. John Wallace, 46 years of age and member of the U.S. Army General Staff, was critically wounded in the chest at Fort Sam Houston on Friday when he accidentally discharged his .45 calibre service revolver.

Mr. Hsu Tao-ling, Counsellor of the Chinese Embassy in Rome, has been appointed to take charge of the Embassy during the absence of the Ambassador, Mr. Liu Wen-tao, in China, according to a Chinese Foreign Office announcement.

The National Government, on a recommendation by the Executive Yuan, has issued a mandate commending the Fu Hsing and Yu Hwa Companies in Hankow for their recent donations of $100,000 and $50,000, respectively, to the national relief funds, states a dispatch to the "Sin Wan Pao."

The telephone office in Chungking, acting on orders from the Szechuen Provincial Government, handed over its entire property to the Ministry of Communications on Friday, says a message to the "Sin Wan Pao." The office, it is reported, will be managed from now on by the Ministry under the name of the Telephone Office of the Chiaotungpu in Chungking.

Over 300 war refugees who recently flocked into Canton have been sent to the reclamation area in Polo district by the Canton branch National Relief Commission and the Bureaux of Forestry and Land Administration in the Kwangtung Provincial Government, says a message to the "Sin Wan Pao." Each of the refugee families, it is reported, will be given 50 mow of land, while single persons will each receive 20 mow.

The Ministry of Economics, in an effort to give relief to unemployed fisher folk along the Chekiang coasts, has ordered the fishing guilds in various districts of East Chekiang to report on the number of people needing such relief, says a message to the "Hwa Mei Chen Pao." Nine-tenths of the fishing population, it is reported, have been rendered idle as a result of the activities of the Japanese naval forces off the Chekiang coasts.

The Japanese adviser to the Social Affairs Bureau of the Shanghai-Woosung Municipal Office in Pootung, accompanied by officials of the "Ta Tao" regime, took over the Autonomous Commission in Nantao on Friday, says a report to the "Standard." Following this assumption of control, it is reported, the Pootung regime is reported to be considering removing some of its more important organs, such as the Mayor's office and the police bureau, to Nantao.

The Navy Y.M.C.A. wishes to acknowledge with thanks the donation of books, magazines and papers received from the following during the month:—Messrs. F. D. Drake, Cairncross, E. H. Munson, Manuel A. The Navy "Y" can still make use of novels and story magazines.

An Old Men's Resistance Association was inaugurated in Nanchang on Friday, states a wire to the "Morning Leader." At the inaugural meeting, which was attended by over 1,000 old people, resolutions were passed for the dispatch of encouraging telegrams to the General Executive of the Kuomintang, General Chiang Kai-shek, the Chairman of the National Government, Mr. Lin Sen, and to national troops fighting at the front and to call on old men throughout the country to follow suit.

The "Mayor" of Tientsin, Mr. Pan Yu-kwei, was recently arrested by the Japanese military in Peiping on a charge of fraud, states a dispatch to the "Hwa Mei Chen Pao." Mr. Pan, it is alleged, had obtained by fraudulent means a sum of $300,000 from certain circles and had represented it as given to him by the Japanese. The latter, however, says the report, found out the truth and put him under custody. Subsequently, adds the message, Mr. Pan was set free, and following his release, he has shut himself up on a plea of illness.

He was so impressed by her capabilities that he persuaded her to become his secretary, and although she had never held such a post before, she was soon handling affairs of State with the assurance of a trained diplomat.

The Hon. Peter Beatty, who jumped suddenly into the news when his horse won the Derby, is one of the most eligible bachelors in England on the sunny side of 30. The mother of Mr. Beatty, wife of the first, and famous sailor, Earl Beatty, was daughter of the first Marshall Field, of Chicago, and a rich woman. She left £200,000 to her younger son, and his father added an extra £50,000 when he died. Lady Beatty also left her stable and her place at Reigate. The Priory, to her younger boy. The Priory is one of the most interesting places in Surrey, and needs nothing except a chatelaine.

It is quite uncertain whether the three foreign colleges in Peiping, the Yenching University, the Catholic University and the Sino-French University will reopen for the fall semester, states a message to the "Standard." The authorities of Yenching University, it is stated, are considering its removal to Tiensin in order to prevent the activities of a pro-"Provisional Government" Society within its campus, from which it has steadfastly steered clear. Meanwhile, says the message, the Catholic University and the Sino-French University, which have resisted attempts at control made by the northern regime by asking it to negotiate with the French authorities, are finding the growing pressure daily more intolerable.

Soviet General's Secrets

Gen. Lushkov Says Stalin Wants to Use China As Cat's Paw; Why He Fled Russia

Tokyo, July 3.

DICTATOR Joseph Stalin's real purpose in aiding Gen. Chiang Kai-shek is to use China as a "cat's-paw" and bolshevize the country eventually, Gen. G. S. Lushkov, former Far Eastern representative of the Commissariat of Internal Affairs of the U.S.S.R., and chief of the State Political Department, told newspaper correspondents in Manchoukuo.

The economic condition of Russia and the standard of living of the masses have not improved under Communism, Gen. Lushkov asserted. "When I received word that I would shortly be recalled to Moscow for duty," Gen. Lushkov said "I remembered that such recalls of others usually had ended in arrest and execution. I suspected that I was in serious danger. I was determined to expose some of the humbugs of Stalin's regime, so I succeeded in running away from Russia.

"Up to the present time, hundreds of thousands of Russians have undergone capital punishment on charges of various forms of treason. But I declare before the world and upon my honour that all these charges have been fabricated stories with no truth whatever.

"Stalin is disposing of not only Trotzkyists but those who are likely to prove his enemies in the future, by imposing upon them such charges as he can manufacture by his hellish sagacity.

Trying To Enlarge Incident

"The economic condition of the country and the standard of living of the masses have not improved: on the contrary, the people, cowering under an unprecedented reign of terror, are angry and indignant over Stalin's actions. Stalin is telling the people that Japan is busy making preparations to attack the Soviet Union. To tell the truth. Stalin is trying to bring abuot an enlargement of the incident and the dissipation of Japanese resources, by giving help to Chiang Kai-shek and carrying on secret negotiations with Sun Fo.

"The Far Eastern Soviet Army alone totals about 270,000 troops, composed of 20 sharpshooter divisions and if the G.P.U. is added to them the whole force east of Lake Baikal can be estimated at about 400,000 men. Along the border there are about 2,000 military planes, and in and around Vladivostok there are more than 90 submarines.

"In the light of these facts it will become clear why Stalin is giving help to China. He is not helping Chiang Kai-shek out of friendship toward him. China is only a cat's-paw for Stalin's despotic policies. This statement is supported by the fact that there recently took place a wholesale round-up of Chinese in the Far Eastern districts of the Soviet Union, and the number of the Chinese arrested reached as many as 11,000, and about 8,000 were forced to migrate. Stalin's real intention is to make whatever use he likes of China and then gradually bolshevize the Chinese.

Why They Confess

"Most foreigners who were present at public trials in Moscow wonder why political leaders make such confessions that they are difficult for outsiders to believe. "The answer is very simple; whenever important people are arrested they invariably undergo cruel tortures in prisons until they agree to make statements just as the Soviet authorities wish them to do. "I think it is necessary to resolutely repudiate the policies of terrorism of Stalin; he makes no scruples about putting the maintenance of his own power above the interests of the state and the people.

"One of the impressions I have received of the Japanese is that, in spite of the hostilities going on, the living conditions of the people in general are not different from those in usual times, and that in spite of the reports published in Soviet newspapers there is plenty of food and supplies in Japan. I am a traitor to Stalin but I never betrayed the cause of my compatriots and fatherland."

Gen. Lushkov went on to say that he first attempted to cross the Soviet border from Grodekov but found this extremely difficult so he changed his plan and fled from Posiet. He said he hesitated a long time before seeking refuge in Manchoukuo. He almost decided to abandon the plan at one time because he feared his relatives and friends might be killed or harmed.

Finally he became convinced that he must carry out his original plan in order to "expose the terroristic dictatorship and deceptive policies of Stalin and deliver the Soviet people out of untold suffering.—Domei.

Late Maharajah's Daughter Talks

Little Princess once Dumb Taught to Speak

Little 11-year-old Princess Surendra of Patiala, once deaf and dumb, talked to the correspondent of the "Daily Herald" recently. Birdie, as she is known to her schoolfellows, is daughter and heiress of the late Maharajah of Patiala.

"I was dumb, so dumb," she said, as she shook hands with me solemnly. But now I speak and I hear a little too. I love England, and I am so happy here I want to stay." But soon she will be returning to India for her betrothal, and she is learning Hindustani from an Indian nurse.

Blowing Feathers

Miss Mary Hare, principal of Dene Hollow Deaf-and-Dumb School, Burgess Hill, said that when the little princess came to her five years ago she was totally deaf and unable to utter a sound. "It was a difficult task making a start, said Miss Hare. I began by teaching her the 'wh' sound. This I accomplished by making her blow feathers from the back of her hand. She thought it a great game, and soon picked up other simple sounds.

One day I said the word 'birdie' when she had her back to me, and to my astonishment she turned round and said 'Yes, Miss Hare.'

Keen on Darts

"I immediately sent a report to her mother, who had her examined by ear specialists in Berlin, Vienna and Copenhagen. They said that nothing could be done surgically, and that the best course would be for her to return here. Now her hearing is improving rapidly."

"Birdie" is an expert swimmer and diver. She also plays tennis and netball, and is very keen on darts!

Story of Michael Moore

1825 was the year which George Stephenson's Stockton and Darlington Railway was opened, in which the Menai Bridge was built, the concertina invented—and Michael Moore was born, states the "Daily Herald." George IV was on the throne, and the weekly wage of a labourer was seven shillings and sevenpence.

Michael Moore became a fisherman: he spent 30 years at sea, mostly in trawlers. Then he turned to peddling.

Kings and Queens were born and died; wars changed the face of the earth—Michael Moore lived through it all.

Some time ago he was taken from the lodging house where he lived to Manchester's Crumpsall hospital. And there, at the age of 113, the oldest man in England, he has died—in the month of May, in the year 1938.

OBITUARY

Mr. James Burnet

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, July 3.

The death has occurred, at the age of 81, of Sir John James Burnet, R.A., chief architect in Palestine and Gallipoli for the Imperial War Graves Commission.

His many public, ecclesiastical and domestic works in England and Scotland included the Royal Institute of the Fine Arts in Glasgow; Glasgow Athenaeum; and King Edward VII Galleries, British Museum Extension. —Reuter.

China Asks America For Wheat Loan

New York, July 3.

The administration is understood to be informally discussing a Chinese request for a loan of wheat. The amount specified is reported to be 100,000,000 bushels. Well-informed circles here, however, believe that the application will be rejected owing to strenuous objections on the part of the State Department. —Reuter.

Scotland Yard's Crime Museum

Packed Into Three Small Rooms is One of London's Most Grisly Collections

Packed into three small rooms in the basement of New Scotland Yard, and inaccessible to the general public, is one of the most grisly collections in London, court "exhibits" and relics of almost every crime of importance that has taken place in the last three-quarters of a century.

Our attention was first drawn to a number of plaster death-masks ranged overhead round the walls, states a correspondent of "The Observer"—those of criminals executed by hanging, and all taken for anthropometric reasons, in the days when executions were still carried out in public. Two bunches of labelled ropes with nooses in their ends hang from the ceiling in two corners—ropes by means of which some twenty or thirty malefactors ended their lives.

A light rope-ladder used by a modern cat burglar is displayed besides the collapsible wooden ladder used by the notorious Charles Peace, executed at Leeds in 1879 for the murder of Alfred Dyson. Peace, as our guide explained, was "a very little man." His ladder, carried in a concertina case, is an ingenious contrivance of connected wooden slats which can be opened vertically and hooked over a projecting cornice. The top edge of each slat provided Peace with the necessary foothold as he pulled himself up. Nearby, in a glass case, are his revolver, tools, and dark lantern, the latter with an improvised wick of a tartan material of which his wife was making a dress at the time of his arrest.

Bludgeons and pistols of various ages with which people have been done to death line the walls of one room. In the show-cases are two "coshes," or so-called life-preservers, which figured in a very recent crime, together with a number of knives and saws used for a variety of ghoulish purposes—nearby, two trunks in which human remains were deposited in railway cloakrooms. Another case contains relics of Crippen, including portions of the pyjama suit in which Mrs. Crippen's remains were buried beneath the flagstones of a cellar of a house in the north of London. Crippen was the first criminal whose arrest was brought about by wireless. The maker's name tab on the jacket of those pyjamas helped to bring about his conviction for murder.

There are bottles of arsenic distilled from flypapers and administered to victims in brandy, wine, and meat extract portions of a tin of weed-killer, and a lengthy statement written in prison by Armstrong, the poisoner. The service pistol with which P.C. Gutteridge was murdered in Essex, together with the stockingette masks used by his slayers and some of the contents o fthe doctor's attache case in the stolen car from which the deed was committed, lie in a case near the running-board of the car, which still bears bloodstains. The distinctive scratches made by the base plate of every revolver on a brass cartridge case helped to bring home this crime to its perpetrators.

A list of all the relics in those three small rooms would fill a considerable catalogue, and their history many books. But not all the exhibits have to do with murder and sudden death.

Sir Roger Casement's cocked hat, sword, and Foreign Office uniform were found among his effects in London. There is a pincushion embroidered like an old fashioned sampler with texts and mottoes for which human hair has been used instead of silk or thread. It was the work of a woman with over three hundred convictions for drunkenness. The pincushion was always handed over to the chaplain on her release from gaol, and given back to her on her inevitable return a few weeks or months later.

"Flannel Foot's" Shoes

There are the relics, including the indiarubber shoes, of a burglar known as "Flannel Foot," who gave Scotland Yard a very long hunt before his final capture a few years ago; safe-cracking implements and cutters; some of them laboriously hand-made; a huge pair of shears used for nipping the nuts off the steel grilles protecting shop doors; a bar of gilded brass filled with mercury and inlet with two or three small nuggets of genuine gold and sold to some gullible citizen for £2,000. There is the roulette wheel so contrived that any number can be made to turn up at will; a crown and anchor board, and a "put and take" top by using which the management cannot lose; and a home-made attache case with a spring bottom used for removing small articles off a shop counter.

Three large sheets of forged health insurance stamps shown in a glass case on one wall are samples of a consignment to the value of over £7,000 manufactured abroad and brought to England in the bottom of a portmanteau with a dummy tin lining for sale to employers.

Ingeniously forged notes and cheques of all denominations have a showcase to themselves, and here the most surprising exhibit is a postal order for 3s. 6d. which one forger must have spent many hours in altering to 8s. 6d. It was not a mere matter of changing the large black figures, but of re-drawing the minutely-printed inner frame composed of "three and sixpence, three and sixpence" repeated over and over again and substituting "eight and sixpence." It is a superb example of minute and accurate penmanship; but, for the sake of the five shillings gain, a surprising waste of time unless it was done for sheer love of the art of forgery.

It's surprising the length to which some criminals will go in making their preparations, our guide told us. But it's the obvious things they so often forget that generally leads to their downfall. There is consolation in that.

Americans Make Clean Sweep at Wimbledon

Budge Sets New Record by Winning Three Titles for Second Year; With Mako Beats German Pair in Men's Doubles Final

Wimbledon, July 2.

WITH Donald Budge, the red-haired Californian, once again in brilliant form, the Americans made fresh history at Wimbledon when they made a clean sweep of all titles. Following Budge's retention of the men's singles crown on Friday, the Americans today won the women's singles, men's doubles, women's doubles and the mixed doubles to sweep the board.

The meeting has been a personal triumph for Budge, who set up a new record by winning three titles in successive years.

Yet another record by an American was the feat of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody in winning her eighth title, defeating Miss Helen Jacobs by 6-4, 6-0. The latter is suffering from a leg injury and must rest for three weeks.

A splendid battle was witnessed in the final of the Men's Doubles, in which Budge and Gene Mako beat Henkel and von Metaxa (Germany) by 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 8-6 to retain their title.

All four played a grand game, although Budge and Henkel were slightly outstanding. Both couples scintillated at the net.

Grand Contest

Rain fell when the Americans were leading by 4-1 in the third set, and it was not until three-quarters of an hour later that the match was resumed.

A grand contest was also witnessed in the final of the Mixed Doubles, which ended in a win for Budge and Miss Alice Marble (America) over Henkel (Germany) and Mrs. Fabyan (America) by 6-1, 6-4.

The Americans were always superior, and kept their opponents continually on the run. Rain also interrupted this match.

Earlier in the day Mrs. Fabyan and Miss Alice Marble (America) captured the women's doubles, beating the holders, Mme. Mathieu (France) and Miss Yorke (Britain) in the final by 6-2, 6-3.

With their opponents in erratic form, the Americans had a comparatively easy time.

The following is how the finals of all the championships ended:

Men's Singles

Donald Budge (America) beat H. W. Austin (Britain) 6-1, 6-0, 6-3.

Women's Singles

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody (America) beat Miss Helen Jacobs (America) 6-4, 6-0.

Men's Doubles

Budge and Gene Mako (America) beat H. Henkel and von Metaxa (Germany) 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 8-6.

Women's Doubles

Mrs. S. Fabyan and Miss Alice Marble (America) beat Madame Mathieu (France) and Miss Yorke (Britain) 6-2, 6-3.

Mixed Doubles

Budge and Miss Marble (America) beat Henkel (Germany) and Mrs. Fabyan (America) 6-1, 6-4.—Reuter.

4th of July Ball Game Today

Amateurs Determined to Regain Cup; Polo Later In the Afternoon

The year's most attractive baseball game will be played today at the Race Course between an all-star Marine aggregation and the Shanghai Amateurs, the traditional Fourth of July competition. Thomas F. Mullahey, president of the local ball club, and Colonel Charles F. B. Price, commanding officer of the Marines, will throw and receive the first ball to set the play in motion with the customary opening ceremony of a classic.

Last year the service team, although pounding out the same number of hits as the civilians, managed to register a 7-4 victory and regain custody of the coveted Community Cup. Whether or not the Amateurs will be able to make the yearly contest a give-and-take affair has been widely discussed by keen followers of the great American pastime.

There is no denying that the A.B.C. are weakened by the absence of Domingo Liboon, the Filipino flash, and that the team have only one player to fly the mound flag. Consequently, unless Al Huebner, the star of the civilians, bears down enough in this afternoon's nine-inning game the chance of snatching the trophy from the hands of the "Leathernecks" is generally considered rather slim.

Amateurs Confident

Nevertheless, Manager Ivy Riddick is not one who feels pessimistic. The civilian mentor says that the 1938 edition of the Amateurs is just as powerful as any in the past. Huebner will be able to last at least seven rounds and there will be young Jimmy Kam and Schoolboy Adams to relieve him in case of need. On the receiving end will be Buster Kabbert, the up and coming youngster who can always be depended upon to turn in a sterling performance.

On the bases, it is expected that Lewis Carson and Owen Krause will be seen in action at second and third respectively. Mickey O'Brien and Bill Lemneck, undoubtedly, will stick to their posts as first baseman and shortstop in due order. In case Carson and Krause do turn up the outfielders will be Jimmy Deegan at left, Johnny Lawler at centre and Jack Riley at right, Willie Ward and Harry Bernard being utility players.

The Amateurs, in view of the above line-up, possess a team of veterans who know exactly what to do. They will play a much cooler game than the service men who are temperamental.

Marines Very Strong

The "Leathernecks" have a flock of capable pitchers, including such stalwarts as Lefty Orzech of the First Battalion, Fuller of the Second, Wells of Headquarters and Lindsay, who pitched the Marines to victory last year. Either Fuller or Orzech will start off today's classic.

The receiving duties will definitely lie on the shoulders of Sonnenberg, who is by far the best catcher among the Marine camps.

Incidently, according to the announcement made by the Marine athletic office yesterday regarding to the team's line-up, all the bases are to be held down by delegates from Headquarters. Besides Sonnenberg, there will be Girard at first, Dingwall at second and Hyman at third. The shortstop post is entrusted to Winchester of the Second Battalion.

As to the positions in the outer garden, Don Beeson, the first-sacker of the Second Battalion will be seen in centre, with Potts, his teammate at his left and Olsen of the First Battalion on his right.

Play will commence promptly at three o'clock. The Band of the Fourth Marines will be on hand to render music. It is probable that, prior to the start, the two contending teams will march around the diamond in a parade with bats on their shoulders. At the conclusion of the contest Mr. Frank P. Lockhart, the American Consul-General here, will present the Community Cup to the winning squad.

Polo Match Follows

The baseball classic should finish about the time that the annual Fourth of July polo game begins between the Cowboys and the Troopers for the British Cup, the baseball beginning at 3 p.m. and the polo at 5 p.m. Patriotic sports enthusiasts will be able to enjoy both contests.

Sweden May Not Enter Olympic Games

Stockholm, July 3.

The movement against a Swedish participation in the Tokyo Olympic Games of 1940 is increasing constantly, the latest step being a protest submitted to Prince Gustav Adolph who is the President of the Swedish Olympic Committee, by 20 Swedish organisations of a political, religious and social character.

Objection to a Swedish participation has been growing rapidly since it was definitely decided at the Cairo congress of the International Olympic Committee not to remove the games from Japan.—Trans-Ocean.

Record Breaking Last Day at Henley Regatta

Two Titles Captured by America; Burk Scores a Runaway Victory in Diamond Sculls

Henley, July 2.

The runaway victory of Burk, the American, in the final of the Diamond Sculls was one of the outstanding features of the last day of one of the most successful Henley Regattas ever held.

The American beat Habbitts, of Reading, by more than 100 yards to set up a new record time of 8 mins. 2 seconds, which is eight seconds inside the record.

This is the fifth consecutive year that the Diamond Sculls has been won by a foreign competitor.

A second title went to America when Kent School defeated the London Rowing Club by one length in the final of the Thames Cup, the time being 7 mins. 3 seconds.

Creep Up and Go Ahead

London led by two-thirds of a length at the half mile, but then Kent crept up and went ahead.

Oriel College (Oxford), stroked by the Varsity stroke, Hodgson, took the Visitors Cup easily, defeating Third Trinity, Cambridge, in the record time of 7 mins. 17 seconds. The previous best was 7 mins. 30 seconds, set up by Magdalen (Oxford) in 1908.

The winners' time to Fawley, about half way, was also six seconds within the record established by Third Trinity (Cambridge) in 1925.

Ladies Plate

In the Ladies Plate, Radley School gave a magnificent performance to beat Pembroke College (Cambridge) by one and a quarter lengths in 3 mins. 56 seconds.

The final of the Grand Challenge Cup resulted in a victory for the London Rowing Club, which beat Trinity Hall (Cambridge) by one and one-third lengths in 6 mins. 58 seconds, while the holders, London Rowing Club "B", retained the Wyfold Cup by beating Royal Chester by four lengths in 7 mins. 41 seconds.

Leander Club retained the Stewards Challenge Cup with an easy win over Trinity College (Oxford) in 7 mins 33 seconds.

A successful record-breaking meeting was concluded when, in the Goblets, Leander, represented by Wilson and Laurie, easily defeated the Bigland Brothers, of Royal Chester, in 8 mins. 8 seconds. The time equals the record established in 1911.—Reuter.

Bowlers Active in Championships

Many Matches Played in Pairs; Interesting Game In Rinks Contest

Yesterday, being the last day for the first round of the Pairs Championships, saw a big clean-up of matches which had been held in abeyance on account of the unplayable condition of the greens at the beginning of the season. One of the surprises of the afternoon was the victory of S. V. Heley and J. Walker, playing under somewhat difficult conditions, over their opponents, C. A. Pereira and A. M. Collaco.

The results of the first round, apart from those already published, are as follows:—

A. Cheetham and J. Wotherspoon beat J. M. Gutierrez and J. M. R. Gutierrez.
J. W. M. Dickson and S. Graig beat A. Roberts and J. Gaffney.
H. A. Ozorio and F. M. Machado beat W. Napier and A. R. Isenhut.
R. S. Duff and C. R. Clements beat J. Barry and J. J. Gavan.
L. F. Lopes and J. T. d'Almeida beat J. M. C. Lopes and L. R. Barrera.
A. B. Hogg and J. Campbell beat F. Medina and A. H. Corveth.
S. V. Heley and J. Walker beat C. A. Periera and A. M. Collaco.
R. Thomson and K. L. Swartzell beat J. C. Dickson and W. Hutton.
C. W. Porter and E. F. Bateman beat G. B. Stormes and E. Gifford.
A. M. Gutierrez and S. del Rivero beat E. Conduit and R. C. Martin.
A. McLean and L. Bell beat W. A. Bailey and C. R. Tanner.
A. J. Willis and G. N. Manley beat W. J. Monk and W. J. Ward.
J. Munro and C. Richards beat H. Molloy and M. Benton.
C. M. Sequeira and A. D. d'Assis beat R. C. Aitkenhead and J. E. Harvey.
J. Sorrie and J. T. Shields beat F. Hornbrooke and E. Jacobs.
T. S. Parry and H. Wallace beat R. Wimsett and J. W. Sandbrook.

Second Round

Four matches were also played in the second round with the undermentioned results:—

T. G. Main and F. O. Madar beat E. E. Wallwork and H. E. Bell.
A. B. Hogg and J. Campbell beat L. F. Lopes and T. J. d'Almeida.
A. M. Gutierrez and S. del Rivero beat A. McLean and L. Bell.
G. V. Jensen and W. T. Manley beat A. Sharp and W. Heaton.

Rinks Championship

An interesting game was played off in the Rinks Championship C. M. Sequeira (skip), A. P. Roza, A. A. Rodrigues and A. A. d'Assis beating W. A. Turnbull (skip), R. Richards, R. Baldwin and A. Harvey by the close margin of 21 shots to 17.

Up to the 19th end the ultimate winners were behind but managed to pull up on the 20th and 21st thus qualifying for the second round.

Oxford Begin Well At Lord's

Knock Up 317 in the 1st Innings Against Light Blues; Lomas Shines

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, July 3.

The annual inter-Varsity match at Lord's and the meeting of Yorkshire and the Australians at Sheffield were the titbits of the first-class cricket matches which commenced today.

With Lomas contributing a flawless 94, Oxford made a splendid start against Cambridge.

Winning the toss, the Dark Blues batted first to score 317, and at the close had claimed one Cambridge wicket for 18 runs.

Oxford won last year by five wickets, their first victory since 1931.

At Sheffield, Yorkshire won the toss but put the Australians in to bat on a damp wicket, and the policy paid for the tourists were dismissed for only 222 runs.

Famous Bats Fail

A stubborn stand by Bradman and Hassett saved the Australians from a disastrous collapse. The Australian skipper was eventually dismissed for 59 and Hassett for 94.

The other famous bats failed to do anything appreciable, McCabe being out for 13, Fingleton for two and Barnes for 10.

At the close of play the champions had made 74 for three, with Hutton contributing only 7 and Leyland 13. Sutcliffe was forced to retire with an injured finger after scoring 12.

The highest innings of the day was compiled by Paynter, the Lancashire and England bat, who reached 177 against Notts. This is his second successive century.

At Lord's—Oxford 317 (Lomas 94, Hewan six for 91). Cambridge 18 for one.
At Sheffield—Australians 222 (Hassett 94). Yorkshire 74 for three.
At Portsmouth—Hampshire 195. Essex 127 (Heath six for 45).
At Manchester—Lancashire 441 for seven (Paynter 177, Nutter 98) against Notts.
At the Oval—Surrey 386 for six (Squires 137) against Sussex.
At Birmingham—Warwick 348 (Wyatt 107, Geary six for 77). Leicester 52 for no wicket.
At Worcester—Middlesex 336 for eight against Worcester.
At Buxton—Kent 201 (Mitchell five for 56). Derbyshire 77 for two.
At Kettering—Somerset 354 (Lee 115, Buse 132). Northants 44 for one.
At Neath—Glamorgan 113 (Sinfield five for 27) and 15 for no wicket. Gloucester 183 (Barnett 90).—Reuter.

Roboostoff Excels in Small Football

Aurora Combined Defeats Shanghai Foreign Side

Rallying under the leadership of Blondy Roboostoff, crack footballer of the Association Sportive Francaise, the Aurora Combined defeated Shanghai's Foreign in a charity miniature football game yesterday afternoon at Aurora University by the odd goal in seven.

The encounter was played under the auspices of a local Chinese charitable organization and the proceeds of approximately $1,500 were turned over to the International Relief Fund.

Because of the absence of E. Victal, the Clube Lusitano star, N. Z. Lee was deputized to take up the absentee's position and acquitted himself creditably, despite of the team's setback. Aurora Combined gained the opening goal in the first minute when, from a corner taken by Zao Wong headed the ball into the far corner of Schneirzon's goal. Roboostoff, however, played an important part in drawing first blood for he legally blocked the foreign keeper and made room for the ball to enter the net without any interception.

The early losers immediately exerted pressure and in the 16th minute, however, Roboostoff broke away on his own, dribbled past Borodian and rifled in a swift shot which left Schneirzon standing.

Foyn Scores

Following a series of exchanges in which both ends were visited, Foyn displayed his prowess again by scoring a well placed shot. He worked smoothly with Rozorio and weaved through several defenders to knot the score for the second time. In less than half a minute the same player tallied his third goal.

Upon the resumption the ultimate winners tightened up and held most of the play. Roboostoff played superbly and in the 6th minute assisted Wong to deadlock the margin at 3-3. The Chinese unleased a hard shot which Schneirzon could not stop. A few minutes later the speedy Russian star turned in another solo. He lifted a long shot which sailed right into the top corner.

P. K. Tong Triumphs in Local Tennis Final

Beats K. F. Li to Capture Dunlop Trophy

Defeating the third "seeded" player in the final of the All Chinese hard-court championship yesterday afternoon at the National Recreation Club, P. K. Tong was named champion and won the Dunlop Cup for the first time. The title-holder's victim was K. F. Li, who bowed in defeat, 6-4, 4-6 and 6-4.

Bitter Duel

It was a bitter duel from the start to finish, both giving all they had to cope with the situation which seesawed up and down. Li was the first to impress as he emerged victorious in the opening set at the end of the tenth game. Tong played well, showing the same skill with which he eliminated two veterans in the two previous rounds. But his game was not as polished as that of Li, who pulled off numerous impossible saves.

Good Sailing for Yachtsmen

Vice-Commodore's Cup Won by Eileen Sailed By John Berents ; Sun Lee Second

YACHTSMEN were provided with excellent sailing conditions for their racing yesterday when the two racing classes went over a course down to Woosung and return. Eileen, sailed by John Berents, won the Vice-Commodore's Cup in "C" class, scoring a total of 28½ points to the 25 earned by Sun Lee (K. F. Piper), while Zuleika (J. C. Clavering) was third with 24 points. This is the first occasion this season on which the smaller class have ventured as far afield as Woosung and the turnout of eight yachts for the contest was good considering the threatening weather of the morning.

"A" class, the miscellaneous fleet sailed two races, the morning's down-river, out to Lismore buoy outside the Woosung breakwater and back to the Pipe Line, being won by Ella with Dr. J. H. Blakelock at the helm, while Rover (H. G. Fabian) was second and Viking (N. J. Stabb) took third place. These results were on corrected times, whereas actually Ingomar led the fleet in over the line but could not save her time on handicaps.

In the afternoon, Viking (N. J. Stabb) put up a particularly good performance, eclipsing even that of her morning's outing, when she followed hard on the heels of the Ingomar to win the race on handicaps while Ella came up with a spurt at the finish to take second place from Rover and Ingomar was fourth.

Piping Wind

The overnight change of weather conditions brought rain in the early morning and yachtsmen looked like being drenched in their long race. The sun came out and a piping wind freshened so that at the start of the miscellaneous class contest, the six boats went out taking the water over their lee rails. Ingomar jumped out in front from the start and was closely followed by Viking, Rover, Ella, Mignon and Spook in order. The North Easterly wind necessitated a beat to the Tungkao Jetty, and from here it was a reach closehauled to Kiaojao from where the yachts eased off their sheets and ran down to Pheasant point preparatory for the beat out to Woosung.

Ingomar was never headed and held her advantage right out to Lismore, but Viking, showing something like her old form was right on her heels all the way and simply revelled in the heavy weather. Rover held third place until Woosung was reached and here the rough water held her back and both Mignon and Ella passed her. The boats went round Lismore quickly, and Ingomar and Viking led in the other three by a considerable margin, only a few seconds separating Mignon, Ella and Rover.

Ingomar in Front

In the afternoon, the bigger class went off with the same strong wind blowing and Ingomar again got the best of the start, making for the cut at Pheasant point followed by Spook and Rover, while Viking, Mignon and Ella stayed out in the main channel. Ingomar retained her lead all the way, making good weather of the long reaches and short legs in the Astrea channel. Viking did particularly well here holding out without tacking and thereby gaining a lot, while Mignon, Rover and Ella again had an interesting struggle, this being their order until the Power Company was reached from where Ella passed Rover, while Spook was some distance behind. At the finish, Ingomar just managed to win from Viking on elapsed times, but the latter displaced her on handicaps. The following were the times:

3RD ORDINARY RACE

	Elapsed	Corrected
Ella (Dr. J. H. Blakelock)	2.02.31	1.41.05

Second Race

The smaller boats started off from the Flagship Line ten minutes after their larger sisters and the six boats got away very well together, Lady Anne and Mignonette being late in making the line. Eileen was down to leeward at the start and Sun Lee had made the line too early on the starboard tack with the result that she had to put about on to the port tack so as to avoid being over the line. Nevertheless these two fast boats soon worked their way through the others, Shimurali having gained a good position earlier on and holding up with the leaders.

As in the case with the bigger boats, "C" class also had to beat to Tungkao and from here they made a long reach and a run to the finish. Sun Lee was able to displace Shimurali of second position, but Eileen displayed her qualities in a heavy wind and held out in front comfortably. The finish saw these two well ahead, with Shimurali and Zuleika fighting for third place which the former took, the latter being well down to leeward and not making sufficient speed to cope with her rival. Yankee was badly left having tried to make the weather side of the transports lying off Point island and losing considerable distance thereby.

In the afternoon, the smaller boats were sent off long before the miscellaneous class decided to get away and here Daphne went out in front with an excellent start, the others being somewhat jammed together at the starting boat due to boats being over the line and making back to restart. Daphne retained her lead for a good while, but Zuleika by holding up to weather displaced her.

Eileen had been blanketed at the start and could not get clear from the others. Berents pinched to get her to windward and thereby let two boats through, but once in the weather berth, he established a position and passed successively the others to take the lead which he did not relinquish. Zuleika had passed Daphne and Sun Lee well down to leeward also went through her to make up on the leaders. The wind headed them in the Astrea channel and all had to beat up to Kiaojao. From here positions were not changed on the run home and the order thereafter was not materially changed, Yankee suffered misfortune when her mainsheet parted, but her skipper was able to get her home safely. The Vice-Commodore's Cup was decided on aggregate points earned in the two races and Eileen won handsomely.

Cross Country Race

Chinese harriers ran yesterday morning in preparation for the forthcoming International 10,000 metres cross country race to be conducted by the French Forces. Z. Z. Chow, star of the Hongkew Club, led his team to victory over a combined team of Eastern Light, Southern Light and Yen Shu.

The victorious club took all the first five places and outclassed their opponents by a huge margin. Chow's time was 35 minutes and 42 seconds. The winner ran with ease and led the pack from start to finish. Given real opposition, Chow could have reached home in a much faster time.

The first ten who finished the course were:—

Z. Z. Chow (Hongkew), T. Z. Chen (Hongkew), T. H. Hwa (Hongkew), K. T. Zee (Hongkew), Z. S. King (Hongkew), K. M. Koo (Combined), J. M. Yao (Hongkew), D. C. Yih (Hongkew), L. F. Yang (Combined) and C. S. Tsiang (Hongkew).

Glover Honoured By Lawn Bowlers

Enjoyable Dinner Held to Bid Farewell to Member of Long Standing

Saturday evening at 'the little thatched hut in the west', where the two cardinal colours of the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club have their headquarters, a very enjoyable smoker took place the object of which was to bid farewell to a prominent member of both the Club and the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Association, Mr. Claude W. Glover, who is leaving Shanghai on retirement on Tuesday next.

The evening opened with the soul-stirring 'Bowlers' Doxology which was rendered, as were the other numbers on the Ancient and Modern Hymn-sheet provided ancient tunes and modern words, with great gusto.

Before the evening got really under way, Mr. W. J. Monk, the President of the Lawn Bowls Club, welcomed the guests and especially the guest of honour, Mr. Glover. In his speech, Mr. Monk stated that this was a bowling occasion and therefore he would limit his remarks to the benefits the gentleman had bestowed upon the bowling community and not to his other activities in Shanghai, which were equally commendable.

Bright Record

It was in 1826 that Mr. Glover really took up the game seriously, an outcome, apparently, of his connection with the Shanghai Scottish In twelve short years he has had a list of successes, honours in Interport, Open Championship and Club events and the congratulations of all present were tendered for his success and keeness in the game. Other angles of his activities were his valuable committee work at the Club of which he had also been Vice-President, President and Captain. He was also a past-President of the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Association.

Special reference was also made to his efforts to preserve the condition of the greens and the enormous amount of work which this had entailed, summer and winter alike. Perhaps the most permanent reminder of his activities lies in the banks of the greens, banks which mysteriously widened under Mr. Glover's regime to dimensions that even a member of normal proportions could navigate without the risk of falling into the ditch.

In saying 'good-bye' to Mr. Glover on behalf of the members the speaker said that this was a whole-hearted expression and in its literary sense was shaved of all sadness. These sentiments were extended to Mrs Glover who had always been keen and interested in the Club and it's play.

Memento Presented

In conclusion, Mr. Monk, upon behalf of the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club, the Yangtszepoo Bowling Club and the Police Recreation Club presented to Mr. Glover an eight-day travelling clock.

In reply, the recipient expressed his sincere thanks to the Clubs. As regards the Lawn Bowls Club, he hoped that the happiness and contentment which at present existed in the Club, and had existed for years, would continue. If he returned to Shanghai in the future his chief reason for so-doing would be to meet his old bowling friends.

Mr. G. Akerman, President of the Recreation Club, praised Mr. Glover's efforts for lawn bowls in Shanghai and on behalf of his Club expressed the hope for a happy retirement, similar sentiments coming from Mr. Chisholm of the Yangtszepoo Bowling Club and Mr. Roberts of the Junior Golf Club.

A cheerful evening concluded with more music and felicitations for the future of the departing guest.

Suzanne Lenglen in Critical Condition

Fear Felt for Life of Famous Tennis Player

Paris, July 2.

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, 30-year-old world-renowned former tennis champion, was in a critical condition today as pernicious anaemia weakened her continually.

At a consultation of physicians, it was decided not to give her a second blood transfusion because of her present state of health.

Dr. D. Tzanck, famous blood specialist, does not leave Mlle. Lenglen's bedside. The famous woman's mother is also in her room all the time.

The nourishment that France's famous tennis champion can take is gradually being decreased in quantity. Today, she was able to have only liquids, no solid foods whatsoever.

Mlle. Lenglen is known throughout the world as the most famous woman tennis player ever to enter competition. She gained her reputation in 1913 and 1914 on the Riviera. In 1919 she won the Wimbledon singles title at her first attempt. She retained her crown until 1924, when she was forced to retire because of poor health. She regained the championship in 1925, withdrew from the Wimbledon tournament the next year and then became a professional. She made a highly successful tour and after a while retired. Her health has been poor of late.—Havas.

Glenn Cunningham Beaten

London, July 3.

Glenn Cunningham, considered by many Americans to be the world's best miler, despite the fact that the record is held by S. O. Wooderson, of England, was beaten by Archie San Romani, winner of the second "Mile of the Century," in 4 mins. 11-4/10 secs. at a meeting in Memphis, Tennessee.

Yankees Continue Heavy Hitting

Trounce Senators Easily To 7th Consecutive Win In American League

New York, July 2.

The Charge of the Light Brigade is gaining in impetus. The New York Yankees, baseball champions of the world, continued to hit on all sixteen cylinders today and swept through to manhandle the Washington Senators by 12-3 to register their seventh straight triumph in a drive that has carried them up from nowhere into striking distance of the apprehensive Cleveland Indians, league leaders.

Home runs boomed a salvo along Murderer's Row, better than one-third of the Rifles' fourteen hits being blasted into the bleachers as Red Rolfe, Bill Dickey, George Selkirk and Joe DiMaggio took turns in lambasting the offerings of Wesley Ferrell and Frank Krakauskas.

Monte Pearson hurled airtight ball for the Rifles, restricting the Senators to a portion of only five hits.

The Boston Red Sox, who have been winning games by mere fractions of late, checked in with another close victory by downing the Philadelphia Athletics, 6-5. Three runs in the eighth inning gave Beantown a lead it never relinquished. Dickman homered for the Red Sox, while Wallie Moses and Cherokee Bob Johnson replied for the Macks.

The St. Louis Browns ended a six game losing streak by defeating the Detroit Tigers, 13-3. Six runs in the seventh inning gave the Brownies a lead which not even home runs by Dixie Walker and Pete Fox could overcome.

Hubbell Wins

In the National League King Carl Hubbell twirled his 201st major league victory as the New York Giants walloped the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8-1. Dolph Camilli homered in the ninth inning to avert a complete shutout for the Flatbush Funnybone Fellows. Harry Danning clouted a four bagger for the Giants.

A double by Floyd Young in the second inning with the bases loaded chased three Pittsburgh Pirates across the plate and enabled the Bucs to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-1.

In a close and hard-fought game, the Boston Bees whipped the Philadelphia Phillies, 2-1. The Bees scored their only two markers on a rally in the fourth inning, giving them a lead that was never threatened until the ninth, when the Phils scored their lone tally in an abortive rally that was nipped in the bud by young Bill Hutchinson, former U.S. Navy pitching star.

Police Prove Skill in Popular Game

"C" Division, S.M.P. Holds Darts Championship

Great excitement has been prevailing in police circles in the Hongkew district of Shanghai for the past few days; not, as one would imagine, over another terrorist outbreak or a new crime wave, but over that ancient English sport of the masses darts.

Everybody knows that a policeman can wield a baton with the best of them, but one would imagine that these heavy handed minions of the law would be lost, so to speak, when it comes to throwing a "nifty" dart, knowing that the best stars in this fascinating game are renowned for their lightness of touch, and movement. We are, however, able to prove that the policeman can hold his own with the best of them as recent events in Hongkew have proved.

Yesterday the semi-finals and final of the "C" Division darts championship were played off, and some stirring throwing was seen. It was said that the markers wore their bullet proof jackets but this could not be confirmed, and as there were no accidents it appears that the police threw with no little skill. "Cagey" Craig, last year's winner beat Conduit in the semi-final, and "Slim" Parker edged out "Pincher" Martin in the other match.

In the final "Cagey" Craig won the first canto by about 300, but in the second one Parker got out with a double-two while Craig was attempting a double-seven. The final one, however, was won by Craig who was about 400 points in front of his opponent.

Kidney Trouble Cured Quick By New Discovery
Doctors Praise Cystex—Works in 15 Minutes
Cleans Out Acids and Poisons—Purifies Blood—Brings New Vigour in 48 Hours
There are 9 million tiny, delicate tubes or filters in your Kidneys which must work every minute of the night and day cleaning out Acids, Disease Germs, Poisons, and Wastes from your blood. If your Kidneys or Bladder do not work right, your body gradually becomes poisoned, you feel old and worn-out before your time, and may suffer from any of these serious and dangerous symptoms: Getting Up Nights, Loss of Vigour, Leg Pains, Nervousness. Lumbago, Swollen Joints, Sciatica, Rheumatism, Dizziness, Dark Circles Under Eyes, Headaches, Frequent Colds, Burning, Smarting, Itching, and Acidity.
But you need not suffer another day from the dangers of Kidney troubles, or Bladder weakness, thanks to a Doctor's discovery of the special Kidney prescription called Cystex (pronounced Siss-tex).

Dr. T. J. Rastelli
Dr. T. J. Rastelli, famous Doctor, Surgeon, and Scientist of London, says: "Cystex is one of the finest remedies I have ever known in my medical practice. Any doctor will recommend it for its definite benefits in the treatment of many common Kidney and Bladder disorders. It is safe and harmless."
Cystex is not an experiment—it is quick and sure in action and has been tested and proved in millions of cases throughout the world. Because it combats and corrects the real underlying causes of Kidney trouble and much illness, Cystex has gained a world-wide reputation as a successful treatment. Dr. T. A. Ellis, graduate of Toronto University, recently wrote: "Cystex's influence in aiding the treatment of sluggish Kidney and Bladder functions cannot be over-estimated. I have here a formula which I have used in my own practice for many years with excellent results. Cystex hastens the passage of over acid irritants, thereby overcoming a frequent cause of burning, itching, getting up nights and frequent urination."

Dr. T. A. Ellis
Because it is a special prescription for the Kidneys, Cystex starts work in 15 minutes to tone, soothe, and heal raw, sore, sick Kidneys and Bladder, and brings a new feeling of health, youth, and vigour in 48 hours.
Dr C. Z. Rendelle, well-known Physician and Medical Examiner of San Francisco, recently wrote: "Since the Kidneys purify the blood, the poisons collect in these organs and must be promptly flushed from the system; otherwise, they re-enter the blood stream and create a toxic condition. I can truthfully commend the use of Cystex."

Dr. C. Z. Rendelle
Because of its world-wide success, in even the most stubborn cases, the Doctor's prescription called Cystex is offered to sufferers from Kidney troubles and Bladder weakness under the fair-play guarantee to cure your troubles to your complete satisfaction or your money back on return of empty package. Get Cystex from any chemist and try it under the money-back guarantee. See for yourself how much younger, stronger and healthier you will feel by using this special Kidney prescription. Cystex must fix you up and do the work to your entire satisfaction in 8 days, or cost you nothing under the money-back guarantee. Beware of substitutes and remember that the Kidneys are endangered by drastic, irritating drugs or neglect. Cystex is the only specially-prepared Doctor's prescription guaranteed for Kidney trouble. Tell your chemist you must have Cystex (pronounced Siss-tex). Look for it in the black and red striped package. No. 500.

British Markets Report

London, July 2.

News of Wall Street activity today and yesterday's Anglo-German payments agreement encouraged London stock brokers to surrender their week-end and spend the day executing other loan orders as the stock market is closed on Saturdays.

Quiet Continental demand again prevailed on the foreign exchange market today, where business was small and rate changes only of a minor character. Dollars ruled firmer at 495.56 cents, compared with 495.62 cents yesterday, while francs closed at 177.87, compared with 177.90 yesterday.

Gold was unchanged at 140/9d., at which level only the small amount of £18,000 worth was sold in the open market. The American shipping parity also remained unchanged at 5½d. premium.

Owing to the absence of selling orders, silver prices were marked-up ⅛d. to 19d. for spot and 18⅞d. for forward. Bears covered, while sellers were reserved.

In the money market there was a quiet week-end demand at a ½ per cent., while the three months bill rate held steady at ½ per cent.—Reuter.

Bombay Silver Stocks

Bombay, July 2.

Stocks of Silver in Bombay on July 2, compared with the two previous weeks:—

June 18 2,500, June 25 1,500, July 2 2,000 Bars.

British Commodities

Saturday's Closing Quotations

London, July 2.

Cotton ruled firm on a good demand. Otherwise, quiet conditions prevailed.

London Rubber: Spot, buyers; July delivery, buyers closed.

London Sugar (Buyers): August 5/0½ +¾; December 5/0½ +½; March 5/1½ +½.

Liverpool Wheat: July 6/5⅛ unch; October 5/10⅝ —⅛; December 5/9½ —¼.

London Metals: Closed.—Reuter.

Berlin Bourse

Berlin, July 3.

The share market took on a livelier tone at the week-end, numerous orders from bank customers leading to increases up to one point in most shares. The improvement was more general in nature than has been observed in several weeks and a spirit of optimism prevailed in trading.

Influencing factors were undoubtedly the speech delivered by Reich Minister of Economies Walther Funk in Pommerania in which he discussed the trade negotiations between Germany and several nations and reported on their successful outcome. Particular satisfaction is furthermore felt over the trade and clearing agreement with England. Another contributing factor to the friendly tone prevailing is the Berlin share market on the firmness of foreign markets which indicates that the industrial situation in the world has become more stable.

Particularly sought after were mining shares.

Fixed interest securities experienced little change although a favourable trend was not lacking.

Call money stood between 3 and 3¼ per cent.—Trans-Ocean.

Bombay Cotton Market

Bombay, July 2.

The Bombay cotton market during the past week responded indifferently to the continued higher American advices, with sentiment rather disturbed by the latest decree of the Japanese Government imposing drastic control over textile goods, especially cotton, and this is expected to have an important bearing on the offtake of Indian cotton to that country.

The export demand was better, especially from Lancashire, while demand from Indian mills was moderately active.

Rainfall has been rather general over the cotton districts, and an open spell will be welcome.—Reuter.

Mexico to Stabilize Peso

Mexico City, July 2.

The Mexican Government, it is repoorted, intends to stabilize the level of the peso at five to the American dollar and also to impose a 12 per cent. export tax. It is exclaimed that the devaluation would be designed to benefit exporters, mainly mining companies, while it is said that the proceeds from the export tax would be used to subsidize importers if the balance of the international settlement was favourable to Mexico.

Today, the peso dropped to 4.86 against the American dollar due to rumours of stabilization.—Reuter.

New York Stocks

Saturday's Closing Quotations

New York, July 2.

Stock prices on Wall Street today finished with mostly gains up to about 3 points, with heavy realizing readily absorbed, as the influx of new buying remains unabated. Virtually all groups participated in the upward trend, with the leadership rotating. Steels and coppers were especially favoured, on the strength of scrap iron and export copper prices. Business news continues to be fairly favourable. At the same time, there was talk of a more lasting peace between the administration and business, which seemed to be a strengthening factor. There was also a wide speculative demand for low prices issues, notably rails and utilities. The turnover today amounted to 1,470,000 shares.

Dow-Jones Summary

By Courtesy of Swan, Culbertson & Fritz

All markets in the United States of America are remaining closed on today in connection with the celebration of Independence Day.

Demand on the Stock Exchange today appeared to be quite insatiable while traders were encouraged by the strength of the metal market and steel scrap prices. Favourable factors today included: the Federal Reserve report for the week ended June 25 showing an improvement in Department Store sales and in most section of business. Unfavourable factors were: Aviation Companies facing increased organization costs; few railroads are expected to show a profit; and, the market anxiously awaiting the outcome of the monopoly investigation.

Reichsmark Quotations

Berlin, July 3.

Reichsmark quotations without guarantee: New York 40.29, Amsterdam 72.76, London 12.30375.

Paris quoted sterling at 177.87 to 177.91, the U.S. dollar not being quoted.—Trans-Ocean.

U.S. Commodities

Saturday's Closing Quotations

New York, July 2.

Prices in the cotton market early advanced in sympathy with securities and better weather reports, but there was some apprehension due to the more frequent mention of insect damage in individual State reports. Finally, the market advanced further on Wall Street and trade buying to close steady, with quotations ranging from 11 to 13 points up.

Wheat prices in Chicago drifted down on reports of useful rains over Western Canada, lower Liverpool advices and expectations of a material increase in south-western receipts over the week-end. Finally, the market steadied in sympathy with securities and heavy unwanted rains over Nebraska. At the final bell, losses of ¾ to ⅞ of a cent were recorded.

Low Point U.S. Depression Near

New York, July 2.

The low point of business depression is near, and, at least, a moderate recovery is expected in the Autumn, according to a survey of the outlook at the opening of the new half-year. The position is reflected primarily in consumers goods, in which a void has been created by excessive curtailment.

Mid-year bank reports are somewhat better than expected, in respect to earnings, while dividends are amply covered.

The opinion is expressed that a strong revival in the capital goods market is not to be expected until the upswing of consumers goods is well established. Although it is impossible to determine how soon capital goods will revive, the expansion possibilities of the housing and electrical equipments fields should provide a basis for hope that the beginning of a cyclical recovery is close.—Reuter.

Heavy Stock Trading

New York, July 2.

Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was the heaviest last week since October and was featured by the return of many small traders who comprised the pre-crash bull market of 1929. The sheep returned to the fold with a more wary attitude, however. Their steady demand precluded wide breaks.

"Whether price advances are maintained or not," the National City June Review said. "they unquestionably will spread encouragement and hope. This is true abroad as well as in this country.

"...Perhaps the chief danger...is that extravagant expectations will be raised before there is confirmation that a turn is occuring. If buying is overdone there will be another slump.—United Press.

Mid-Year Reports of Leading Banks

New York, July 2.

Reports of leading banks throughout the country were somewhat better than expected with respect to earnings, while dividends were generally amply covered. Deposits and assets have increased sharply from March figures, reflecting Government spending rather than expansion of bank credit.

Holdings of cash and Government securities were generally higher, while loans and discounts increased despite the falling trend of bank credit. Most banks may find their undivided profits increased despite the exceedingly low interest rates prevailing.—Reuter.

Car-Loadings in U.S.

New York, July 1.

Car-loadings in the United States for the week ended June 25 totalled 559,000 cars, according to the weekly review of the Association of American Railroads, which was published today.

This compares with 556,000 cars last week and 774,000 cars for the corresponding period of last year, showing an increase of 3,000 cars and a decrease of 216,000 cars respectively, compared with the figure for the week under review.—Reuter.

S.E.C. Chief Re-elected

Washington, July 2.

The Securities and Exchange Commission announced today the re-election of Mr. William O. Douglas as chairman for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1939.

Mr. Douglas was appointed a Commissioner in January, 1936, to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy and became Chairman in September, 1937. Mr. Kennedy is the United States Ambassador to Great Britain.—United Press.

Tokyo World Fair May Be Abandoned

Military Situation Likely To Delay Plans

Tokyo, July 3.

Necessity for concentrating the nation's attention on the military situation may cause the Government to cancel plans for the proposed International Exhibition here in 1940, it was learned this afternoon.

Serious discussions are going on between Government officials and business men regarding the advisability of holding the exhibition. It had been planned as part of the official celebration of the 2,600th anniversary of the founding of the Japanese Empire.

Restrictions on the use of steel and other building materials, except for military purposes, are seriously hampering preparations.

The Ministry of Commerce and Industry gave assurances, however, that ample supplies of building materials will be available in case the Government decides to go ahead with the exhibition plans.

Mr. Seinin Ikeda, Minister of Finance, Commerce and Industry, said a final decision would be made by the end of July at the latest on the basis of an investigation now being conducted.

He said the International Exhibition was not intended as a "merry-making" project, but would be very useful for stimulating trade and industry. The emergency situation confronting the nation also must be considered, he added.—Domei.
